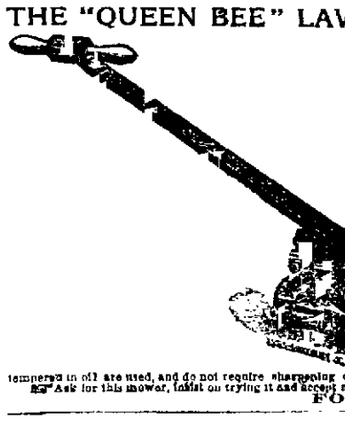
THE "QUEEN BEE" LAWN MOWER.



WHY WE RECOMMEND IT.

First—Because it runs more easily than any other machine made, and can be worked by a child with the greatest ease.

Second—Lightness, combined with strength in construction. Although light, it will stand more hard usage without breakage than any other mower made.

Third—By the simplicity of its construction, having only one gear on each side it never can get out of repair.

Fourth—It has an enclosed ratchet, which is not only dirt proof but perfectly silent, thereby doing away with much of the noise and racket of other mowers.

Fifth—Its material is of the best, only solid cast steel knives tempered in oil are used, and do not require sharpening once where others do a score of times.

Ask for this mower, insist on trying it and accept no other as being "just as good."

New Tariff Bill Admits the Low Grades Free.

McKinley Measure at Last Submitted to the House.

ADVERSE REPORT BY CARLISLE

McKenna, of California Attacks the Principle of Bounty System.

HIGHER DUTY ON FARMERS' PRODUCTS

Government to Pay One Dollar a Pound on American-Grown Silk—A Compromise on the Leather Schedule.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—[OREGONIAN Office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—The tariff bill was finally reported to the house to-day, and the most encouraging feature of it is that it places sugar on the free list. This, of course, brought out a protest from McKenna, of California, who insists that coast sugar refiners should be protected. There was another strong effort made to place lead mixed with other ores on the free list as at present, but the lead men made a strong and determined fight and finally won the battle.

Another feature of importance is the reduction of the twine rate to 2½ cents, in place of the 3 cent duty at present.

The bill as amended since the first reports is a Western and Northern measure as against the East and South, and it is from these sections that the greatest complaint comes. In the matter of hides there was a compromise hides being placed on the free list, while 35 per cent cut was made in manufactured boots and shoes.

It is quite probable that a caucus will be held on the bill by the republicans, and an explanation made by the members of the ways and means committee.

The majority report begins with a statement of the financial situation. It estimates that the surplus at the end of the present fiscal year will be $92,000,000, and deducting the sum required to make the payments of the sinking fund, the net surplus of receipts over expenditures will be $43,570,000. The estimated surplus of the next fiscal year will be $48,570,000, which, with the amount of cash now on hand and available, reaching $53,000,000, will justify a reduction of the revenues in the sum contemplated by the bill reported, $70,057,000 and probably more, from customs, and say $10,343,000 from internal revenue, or a total of $81,365,000.

The report further says that the bill as proposed will result in decreased revenue; that in all cases the increased tariff will result in decreased importations, and therefore decreased revenue; that the committee aimed to put an increased rate on manufactured goods and farm products producible in this country, in order to develops a home market, and that the committee was not so much concerned about the prices of the articles we consume as to encourage the increase and diversification of home products, giving fair returns to the producers and fair wages to American workmen, believing that home competition will regulate prices. The committee admit that free trade would cause a temporary reduction in prices, but argue that it would be at the expense of domestic product, and that prices would advance with the country at the mercy of foreign syndicates and manufacturers, and the ultimate result would be disadvantageous to both capital and labor. The committee says that the country is least prosperous in which low prices and wages prevail, and point to the present agriculture depression as a sample. The committee believes it better to raise the $400,000,000 necessary to run the government by taxing foreign imports than to take it from domestic products. The bill is based upon protection to American industry, but at the same time recommends no duty above the point of difference between the normal cost of production here, including labor, and the cost of like production abroad.

The report then takes up the details of the bill, and says the reduction in the revenues from the placing on the free list of chemicals not produced in this country will amount to $875,000. The report cites figures to show the decline in wool production, and says an advance of duties has been recommended which will afford ample protection to the wool growers. While the senate bill fixed the duty on third-class wool at 4 cents, the committee makes it 3½, with a change in definitions and classifications, etc., which will compensate for the difference. The committee believes the country should produce all the wool it consumes, and this can be done by the addition of 100,000,000 sheep to the present number. The report says the bill seeks to stay the shameless frauds which have been practiced in the importation of wools and woolen goods, and declares that during the past fiscal year invoices showed the importation of woolen manufactures of the value of $82,681,000, whereas the real market value was nearly $90,000,000, equivalent to an importation of 160,000,000 pounds of wool. The present bill, it is argued by increasing the duty on fine wools will transfer to this country fifteen to twenty million dollars in woolen manufactures. The average rate of the woolen goods schedule proposed is 91 78, against the present rate of 67.15.

In the metal schedules, the report says no reduction can be made in pig-iron or ore without detriment to existing industries, and the committee has not felt justified in interfering with further development. The iron-ore resources now seem promising in the Southern states. With regard to pig-iron, it is said that it is in no sense raw material. It is a product of the highest skill, requiring for its manufacture large and expensive plants, the capital invested in which in our country to-day was more than double that invested in any other branch of our iron and steel industries. Pig-iron is made in twenty-five states of the Union. The report strongly sustains the increased duty recommended on tin plate.

Of sugar the report says the committee recommend that sugar up to and including No. 16, and molasses, be placed on the free list, with a duty of 4-10 of 1 per cent. per pound on refined sugar above 16. A bounty of 2 cents per pound shall be paid from the treasury for a period of fifteen years for all sugar polarized at least 85 per cent., made in this country from cane, beets, or sorghum, produced in the United States. In 1888 the consumption of sugar in the United States was 1,409,597 tons, or 34½ pounds per inhabitant. Of this only 139 914 tons were produced in the United States, so that a large proportion of the sugar was imported. The home production of sugar does not materially affect prices, and the duty is therefore a tax which is added to the price, not only of the imported, but of the domestic product. In 1889 the duties collected on imported sugar and molasses amounted to $55,975,610. Add to this the increased price of domestic sugar arising from the duty, and it is clear the duty on sugar and molasses made the cost of sugar and molasses at least $64,000,000, or about $1 for each man, woman and child in the United States, more than it would have been, if no such duties were levied and the domestic product had remained.

Even on the assumption that with proper encouragement we shall eventually be able to produce all, or nearly all, the sugar required for the consumption of our people, this encouragement can be given much more economically and effectually by a bounty of 2 cents per pound, involving the expenditure of but little more than $7,000,000 per annum, with the present production of sugar in this country, than by the imposition of a duty involving the collection of $55,575,610 in duties in the last fiscal year, not to mention the amount indirectly involved. In providing that not only raw sugar, but also sugar including No 16, be admitted free of duty, opportunity is given for the free introduction of yellow sugars suited to family use, an arrangement which will secure to the people sugar at the lowest price existing in the markets of the world, while even imported white refined sugar will be subjected to a duty of only 4-10 of 1 per cent. per pound.

Coming to agricultural products, the report says the committee has given most of its investigation to the existing conditions of agricultural and kindred matters. Referring to the widespread depression of this industry, the report says: The enemies of the protective system have no word of criticism for the real causes of the agricultural depression, no suggestion of relief from the real burdens which are weighing it down to-day, but seizing the present as a favorable time, they solemnly charge that the decline in our market is solely due to the tariff. They are pleased to ignore the fact that one of the purposes of the protective tariff is to hinder still larger importation of foreign produce, and thus save the market from still greater depression. But your committee, actuable of the importance of this industry, prompted by a single motive to lift it to a higher level of profitable employment, believe they offer in the bill all the relief which tariff legislation can give to it. A critical examination of the subject shows that agriculture is suffering chiefly from damaging foreign competition in the home market. The increase of importations of agricultural products since 1850 has been enormous, amounting from $40,000,000 so more than $256,000,000 in 1889. The world's market, to which the advocates of a tariff for revenue only invite the farmers of this country, is to-day crowded with the products of the cheapest human labor the earth affords. All over the old world there is a rush of this surplus to that market, and it is to such a contest as this that free trade would allure American agriculture.

With the foreign grain market under the sway of such oppressive competition, with the foreign cattle and pork market depressed and obstructed by various ruinous measures of restriction, with foreign agricultural products crowding our home market, your committee have recommended an increase upon agricultural products, with a view to increasing the number of gainful occupations open to the farmer.

The committee have recommended a bounty to growers of silk. As a duty of $1 per pound would be required to protect American silk and reels, the committee has decided that so high a duty would embarrass the silk weaving interests, with sufficient reason, and to secure the industry as speedily as possible offers the necessary differential bounty of $1 per pound, or about 20 per cent. protection on reeled silk. The report says: "To produce our annual importations of reeled silk will require 14,000 machines, and give work to over 20,000 persons in the different branches of the industry. To produce the cocoons necessary to supply this silk will give temporary but remunerative employment to the families of half a million farmers in every season. To encourage the production of cocoons and give direct encouragement to producers, the committee has also provided a bounty of 7 cents per pound on fresh cocoons, the bounties to continue ten years.

Of the internal revenue sections, the committee says it recommended repeal of all the statutes imposing restrictions upon farmers and growers of tobacco, so that they may sell with freedom.

In conclusion the report says of the advance of duties on agricultural products that they are for the most part on articles which this country can produce to the extent of our wants. The increased duty will reduce importations so that the revenues will not be increased, and our farmers will hold their own markets. The same result will follow in other cases of increase, and where the revenue in special cases is increased, the increase will be far less than indicated by a computation based on the theory that importations will continue advantageous as under lower duties.

The minority report, signed by all the democratic members of the committee, says: The minority contends for the principle of just and equal taxation of the many for the benefit of the few. We are as anxious as the majority can possibly be to promote and encourage American industry and advance the interests of American laborers, but we believe both of these objects can be accomplished by reducing taxes and not by increasing them. The majority after months of laborious investigation has been able to satisfy a part only of the demands made on it. The only remedy is to remove as far as possible the artificial burdens and restrictions and give to all our industries an equal chance in the field of competition at home and abroad.

According to statements made before the committee, the protected industries of the country have never been at any time in our history in such a depressed and discouraging condition as now, after nearly thirty years of continuous protection. A great many parties engaged in these industries declared that the slightest reduction of duty would compel them to close their works and discharge their employes, and others have even gone so far as to assert that they would be forced to go out of the business. At the same time laborers in these industries are complaining of insufficient wages, repeated suspension of work, and a general condition of insecurity. These laborers, fully realizing the fact that this system has wholly failed to increase their earnings or improve their condition in any way, have been compelled to organize trades unions and resort to other methods of combination and cooperation for self protection, and these various organizations now afford the only efficient means at their command for the preservation of even the existing rates of wages.

The report states the remedy proposed by the majority is composed of more taxes upon articles of foreign origin which the people of this country wish to buy and for which they are ready and anxious to exchange cotton which they cannot spin, corn and wheat they cannot consume, coal they cannot burn and many other productions. The majority bill is framed upon the assumption that as our industries grow older they grow weaker and more dependent upon the bounty of the government. It devolves upon these advocates to now explain, if they can, why it is that after a low tariff policy has been abandoned for more than a quarter of a century and a high tariff policy substituted in its place, the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the country are less able to maintain themselves than they were when the change was made; and when this is done it will still remain for them to show on what principle of justice or policy consumers can be periodically subjected to additional taxation for the exclusive benefit of private businesses enterprises.

The silk bounty is severely criticised.

The report says the bill will increase the taxes on wool and woolens $18,000,000 per annum, according to last year's importations, but really to a much greater sum, while taxes on tobacco to the amount of $8,880,994 are abolished. The minority cannot agree to do this at the price of an increase on necessaries. The report attacks some of the details of the bill. Among other things, it says one grade of coarse, cheap blankets will be required to pay 106 per cent., but the finest blankets will pay 72 per cent. The coarsest and cheapest woolen hats will be subjected to a duty of 111 per cent., and the finest to 60 per cent. Women's and children's cheapest dress goods, with cotton warp, are to be taxed 106 per cent., and the finest 73 per cent. The lowest grade of woolen clothing will pay 1.25 per cent., and the highest grade 88 per cent., etc.

On the metal schedules the report says there are many increases and scarcely any reductions. The report says: We have for a long time been endeavoring to increase trade with the people of Central and South America and Mexico, and an international conference is now being held to devise means to accomplish this result. In the midst of the consultations, and when it was confidently hoped some practicable plan might be agreed upon for the establishment of closer commercial relations, this bill is reported, containing provisions which will not only retard reciprocal arrangements for the future, but will destroy the larger part of the trade now existing. The bill proposes to make large increases in the duties on carpet wools and subject lead contained in silver ores to duty, not because we need revenue, but for the sole purpose of preventing these articles from being imported into the country.

Speaking of the wool schedule, the report says: These increases are made principally upon the demand of a few large flockmasters in the state of Ohio, and are defended by the majority upon the alleged ground that they are beneficial to the farmers of the country who keep sheep. The fact is that wool is one of our least important agricultural products in point of actual value, and by comparison with others.

Speaking of the other duties imposed upon agricultural products, the minority says: It is impossible to protect the farmer against foreign competition in his home market, for he has no such competition, and the insertion or retention of these articles in the tariff bill is a device which will deceive no one who gives a moment's thought to the subject. During the last fiscal year we exported 60,692,920 bushels of corn and imported only 2788 bushels. The same proportion is quoted on wheat as Indian meal, and the minority adds: This shows how futile it is to attempt to afford protection to the farmers by imposing duties upon importations of these products, and this large and intelligent class of citizens cannot be reconciled in this way to the policy which increases the taxes upon their clothing, table ware, carpets, earthenware, glassware, agricultural implements and other necessary articles. The minority asks how the farmers are to be helped by an increased duty on rods used in the manufacture of fences, wire and iron, or steel for hoops or ties for baling purposes.

NOTICE

Yesterday's Forecast Fulfilled as to Every Nomination.

HERMANN IS RENOMINATED

Thompson for Governor, to Lead the State Ticket to Victory.

BEAN AND METCHAN ARE CHOSEN

McBride, McElroy and Baker Nominated By Acclamation.

JAMES LOTAN CHOSEN STATE CHAIRMAN

Stephens for District Attorney—Other District Nominations—Strong Platform—Proceedings of Yesterday's Convention in Full.

THE TICKET.

CONGRESSMAN—Binger Hermann, of Roseburg.
GOVERNOR—David P. Thompson, of Portland.
SECRETARY OF STATE—George W. McBride, of St. Helens.
TREASURER—Phil Metchan, of Baker City.
SUPREME JUDGE—R. S. Bean, of Eugene City.
STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—E. B. McElroy, of Salem.
STATE PRINTER—Frank C. Baker, of Portland.

James Lotan is now the Supreme Boss of the republican machine of the state of Oregon. He is chairman of the state central committee, and occupies the throne so long occupied by his political adversary, Joseph Simon.

The new Boss seemed to be quite popular with the convention which met yesterday. When Chairman Willis, of the home delegation, named him as Multnomah's member of the committee, the convention gave him a small-sized ovation. The committee met immediately after the adjournment of the convention and promptly elected him chairman. Eastham, of Clackamas, nominated him, saying it was the proper thing to do, as Multnomah county is the seat of war and the chairman should be located here.

Mr. Lotan was unanimously elected. Replying, he remarked in his dry way that he had done considerable work in this neck of the woods lately, and would like to keep it up until election day. To those conversant with the political fight in this county Mr. Lotan's few words were full of meat and meaning, but the chattering of the delegates caused so much confusion if the hall that all of the committeemen on the stage did not catch the chairman's remarks.

The committee also discussed briefly the advisability of selecting an executive committee of five to conduct the campaign and elect a secretary therefor. It was agreed to leave the subject to the chairman and let him appoint his own secretary.

The convention which met yesterday was the most harmonious, as well as one of the briefest republican conventions that has ever met in Oregon. Its actual working time was four hours. There was no opposition to Hermann, McBride, McElroy and Baker, so they were nominated unanimously. It took but one ballot to make D. P. Thompson the gubernatorial candidate, and one to name R. S. Bean for supreme judge. The longest fight was for the treasurership, and that was soon settled.

Harmony prevailed in all the deliberations of the convention, and there is general satisfaction with the result among the delegates. All regard the ticket as a strong one, and a sure winner. The platform is admitted on all sides to be an able and comprehensive declaration of republican principles.

Senator Tongue made an able and pleasant presiding officer. After the convention was over a fellow senator took him warmly by the hand, and slapping him familiarly on the shoulder, said: "Tom, you have done well in the chair, and if you want to be president of the senate next year, you will get my vote."

GETTING DOWN TO WORK.

The republican state convention lost no time in getting down to work yesterday morning. A majority of the delegates were in the vicinity of the hall for half an hour before the time set for the meeting. The hall was filled with delegates button-holing each other and renewing acquaintances. Many of the delegates attended the convention two years ago, and they talked over the success of the last ticket and the prospect of treating the democrats similarly this year.

Chairman Barin, of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 11:10 and called for the election of a temporary chairman.

Senator Moore, of Columbia, nominated Senator Tongue, of Washington, who was elected by acclamation. He took the chair amid applause, and was introduced by Chairman Barin. He spoke briefly as follows.

CHAIRMAN TONGUE'S SPEECH.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Republican State Convention. I appreciate the honor of being called upon to preside over the deliberations of this convention, and for this mark of your confidence and esteem accept my sincere thanks. In this connection permit me to congratulate you upon the changed aspect of affairs since the convention two years ago. At that time the executive department of our national government and the house of representatives were in the control of the democracy, and the United States senate was so nearly tied that defeat or reverse in any of the republican states might result in turning over the entire government to the democracy.

The democrats, after trying to run the government on republican principles, had just announced a platform of their own; they had just promulgated that piece of political demagogy known as the Mills bill, which proposed to promote the interests of the American workman by robbing him of a market for the products of his labor; they had attempted to introduce into national politics the ward system of politics prevalent in Five Points. They proposed to reward by protecting their industries those states which had voted or might vote for a democratic president; they proposed to punish, by destroying their industries, those states which had the independence to vote for republican candidates.

Under these circumstances the republican convention of Oregon met in this city two years ago. Through its wise declaration of principles, spirit of harmony, devotion to republican principles, by placing good men on the ticket, and by a well conducted campaign, the tramp of republicanism marching on to victory, was heard throughout the Union. [Applause.] Oregon became known as it was never known before, and the name of our young state became synonymous with republican triumph. [Applause.]

A different state of affairs confronts us to-day. The country is in the hands of the republicans, and the tariff will be modified on the line of statesmanship by its friends, not by its enemies. Let a spirit of harmony prevail, and let there be devotion to republican principles. Let the platform ring out clearly and unmistakably with republican principles, let us place upon our ticket men whose intelligence and personal worth guarantee the faithful discharge of public duties, and on the first Monday of June the people will ratify your work, this day begun. [Applause.] Gentlemen, I thank you again.

E. L. Eastham, of Clackamas, nominated E. M. Rands of Clackamas, for temporary secretary. He was elected without opposition.

D. M. Dunne of Multnomah, named G. W. Davis of Linn, for assistant secretary, and he was elected.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

On motion of Jordan of Multnomah the chair appointed a committee of five on credentials. He named T. A. Jordan of Portland, F. A. Moore of Columbia, J. W. Norval of Union, J. M. Hodson of Lane and J. B. Lucas of Gilliam. Senator Eakin was named from Lane county, but he declined in favor of Mr. Hodson.

Handley of Tillamook provoked a little debate by moving that a committee consisting of one from each county be selected by the county delegations to prepare a platform.

Barrett raised the point that it would be better to wait until the credentials committee reported, as in the present uncertain condition of things the chair could not tell who were entitled to seats.

ORDER OF BUSINESS ADOPTED

Next came the report of the committee on permanent organization and order of business, signed by the chairman, H E. Ankeny

The report recommended the temporary organization be made permanent, and the chair to appoint a sergeant at arms of the convention Following was the order of business

First—The report of the committee on credentials

Second—Report of committee on platform and resolutions.

Third—Nominations, in the following order

1. Congressman
2. Governor
3. Secretary of State
4. Treasurer
5. Supreme Judge
6. School Superintendent.
7. Public Printer
8. District Officers

9 The selection of a S ate Central Committee consisting of one from each county

The report was unanimously adopted

Next in order was the report on platform but it appeared that the committee had not yet been able to complete their report.

P L. Willis asked that the sergeant at arms consult with the committee as to when the report would be ready

The chairman—I have not yet decided upon the appointment of a sergeant at arms If the convention would suggest— [Loud calls of "Summers I will appoint Lieutenant Colonel O Summers [Laughter and applause]

Colonel Summers—I have to thank the convention for the office anyway and am gratified in receiving the first plum of the crop if there is nothing in it.

The chairman instructed the sergeant-at-arms to confer with the committee on platform and as certain how soon they would be able to report

He did so and informed the chairman that they would not be ready before 3 30.

On motion of Mr Doran, a recess was taken until that hour

Chairman Tongue rapped so vigorously for order when the convention reassembled at 3 30 that the head of the gavel flew off, and bounding on the floor struck C I T R Cornelius, of Washington county in the face Col. Cornelius was the republican candidate for governor four years ago

THE PLATFORM

The platform committee then made its report, which A H Tanner chairman of the committee read Great enthusiasm prevailed during the reading He said the platform

The republican party of Oregon in state convention assembled, proud of its record and past history its devotion to the principles of human liberty and humanity, its great and imperishable names which lend new and more glory to the American nation at home and among the nations of the earth and as an assurance of its continued fidelity to the great principles for which it has contended in the past in state and national affairs, does hereby make and affirm the following declaration of its principles

First—That we favor honest efficient and economical administration of every department of government both state and national.

Second—That we regard the free school system of our state as the special care and pride of the republican party, to be cherished as one of the bulwarks of the liberties of the people.

Third—That whereas the republican party has always contended for a pure electoral system in pursuance of this policy we favor the adoption of the Australian ballot system [Applause] and we pledge the republican party to enact such a law at the next session of the legislature substantially upon the line and of the character of the act as drafted by the Ballot reform league of Oregon. [Applause]

Fourth—That as the republicans of Oregon send greeting and pledge to their brethren of Maine and Vermont the name of Thomas B Reed an honest statesman and a patriot who as speaker of the forty-first congress has cured for these states of the Pacific the repeal of the infamous system of bonded robbery by which the industries of our section were made tributary to the wealth of the east [Applause] and we pledge to the republican party of Maine the support of every republican in Oregon in the campaign now pending [Applause]

Fifth—That we favor the election of United States senators by the people

Sixth—That we favor legislative enactment by which there may be elected or appointed a state inspector of weights and measures and also favor amendments to municipal charters which shall require the appointment of building and sanitary inspectors in all cities of ten thousand or more inhabitants.

Seventh—That we favor legislative enactment by which there may be elected or appointed a state inspector of weights and measures and also favor amendments to municipal charters which shall require the appointment of building and sanitary inspectors in all cities of ten thousand or more inhabitants.

Tenth—That we favor legislative enactment by which there may be elected or appointed a state inspector of weights and measures and also favor amendments to municipal charters which shall require the appointment of building and sanitary inspectors in all cities of ten thousand or more inhabitants.

Fourteen—That we favor legislative enactment by which there may be elected or appointed a state inspector of weights and measures and also favor amendments to municipal charters which shall require the appointment of building and sanitary inspectors in all cities of ten thousand or more inhabitants.

Fifteen—That while disclaiming the right to interfere with the administration of internal affairs of foreign nations, we sincerely approve the efforts of Irish and English statesmen to secure by peaceful methods the American principle of home rule for Ireland. [Applause]

Sixteen—That we denounce all trusts and combinations that pave for their object the controlling of the market value of the necessaries of life and that we are in favor of laws restraining and abolishing the same.

HARRISON'S ADMINISTRATION INDORSED

Seventeen—That we congratulate the country upon the success and the prosperity that have marked the first year of President Harrison's administration, that we rejoice in the restoration of dignity vigor and statesmanship in the conduct of foreign affairs which have settled grave international complications upon a basis which secures every American right and which by friendly advances and hospitality have strengthened the words of sympathy and interest which join us to the republics of the American continent, paving the way to a policy of peace, of extended commerce, and of amity among all the nations of the New World [applause] that we commend the present national administration for applying tax surplus funds to the payment of interest paying bonds, as contrasted with the democratic policy of lending the surplus to banks which rec ived their bonds and collected interest thereon while using the people's money, which should have been applied to the payment of said bonds. [Applause.]

After the reading Stephens of Multnomah moved the adoption of the platform in its entirety His motion prevailed by a unanimous vote.

THE PLATFORM COMMITTEE.

This body as originally composed, consisted of one member from each county As soon as it was called to order, however, it became apparent that it was too unwieldy for practical work A subcommittee was therefore selected consisting of A. H Tanner, T E. Fell W N Barrett, H. E Cross, C E Wolverton and C B Watson

It was 8 15 when the sub-committee finished their labors and called the whole platform committee together, and Judge Tanner read their report. At the conclusion of the reading a motion was made that the report be adopted as a whole

Exception was taken to the eight-hour plank. It was urged that the enforcement of an eight-hour law would have a tendency to discourage capital from investment, in competition with California and Washington. It was held by others however, that the eight hour resolution would catch the labor vote

A country delegate was not satisfied with the taxation resolution He said "There are a great many looking to this convention for a resolution declaring in unmistakable terms for the taxation of all bonds If you want to catch the granger vote you must make a resolution more explicit than that.

The next speaker favored the resolution as it stood He was opposed to putting anything in the platform that could be construed as an indorsement of Sylvester Pennoyer's views The opposition to issuing untaxed bonds, he said was Pennoyer's hobby and he didn't want the republican party to indorse it. After considerable desultory discussion the vote was put, and resulted in a vote nearly unanimous for the resolutions as a whole The committee thereupon filed into the hall, and the convention was called to order

The convention was now ready for the nominations and a motion for the appointment of six tellers prevailed The chair named D M Dunne of Multnomah J H Middleton of Wasco J S Cooper of Polk, J K Fisher of Baker, W R. Ellis of Morrow and H B Miller of Josephine

HERMANN BY ACCLAMATION

Promptly at 4 o clock the chair called for nominations for congressman Hermann's renomination being beyond dispute there was little or no ceremony By way of formality George Stearns, of Douglas, named Hermann in these remarks:

"The gentleman whom I wish to nominate is well enough known to need no speeches. I nominate Binger Hermann"

Five hens of Multnomah, waited until the cheering was over when he moved that the nomination be closed

Lessure moved to suspend the rules and declare Hermann the unanimous choice of the convention

Chairman Tongue said the convention had no rules, but put Lessure's motion as the equivalent of a motion to nominate Hermann by acclamation

A Shower of ayes greeted the motion as stated by the chair and Binger Hermann was renominated by acclamation Whoops, yells and wild hurrahs, accompanied by hat throwing followed and only stopped when the chair announced that 'nominations for governor are now in order"

WILLIAMS NOMINATES THOMPSON.

As Hon George H Williams's familiar figure was seen rising in Multnomah's place in the hall it was known that he was taking the floor to nominate Thompson, and there was great applause Judge Williams's effort to go on with his speech was a failure. Every one in the hall was cheering or yelling, "Get on the platform and talk" Judge Williams turned slowly and walked to the stage, and as he came to the front he received another ovation He was then allowed to make his nominating speech He said:

Mr Chairman and Gentlemen: I rise to place in nomination as the republican candidate for governor of Oregon Hon David P Thompson, of Multnomah [Applause and cheers] I need take no time to discuss the merits of Mr. Thompson before this convention. He is an old and well known citizen and has been from the beginning to the present identified with the republican party. He has filled several important and responsible offices in a creditable and satisfactory manner

"I favor his nomination not from personal considerations My relations with Mr Thompson are not particularly close or cordial but when I meet in a public capacity as one of this occasion I lay aside personal preferences and do what I think is for the best interests of the republican party as well as of the state I think I am serving the best interests of the republican party when I serve the interest of its men

"I favor Mr Thompson because I think he possesses all the necessary qualifications to make a good governor He is intelligent, energetic, a practical and hid pendent, and not afraid to assume any responsibility that may devolve upon him I do not agree with Mr Thompson on some matters but all of us cannot agree with our candidates and as far as I am personally concerned I will never cast a vote for an independent and bear less man than for a man who pretends to be for everything and for everybody and panders to everything for popularity Demagoguery is one of the most degrading and debasing features of our politics.

I am told that since the delegates began arriving in this city some gentlemen have been industriously trying to make it appear that Thompson if nominated could not carry Multnomah county In this they are very much mistaken Mr Thompson was recently elected school director defeating a very popular young man There was nothing political in the election, and both candidates ran on their personal popularity Mr Thompson's election was a test of his popularity

"I will tell you one thing If D P Thompson is nominated by this convention he will not be nominated to be defeated [Cheers and applause.] He is no such man I favor the nomination of D P Thompson because the majority of the republicans of this state favor him Because if elected he will make an able honest, efficient and enterprising governor

ELLIS NAMES MOODY

Ellis of Morrow nominated ex Governor Moody as a man who had been tried as the executive of the state who carried the banner of the party in the campaign of 1888 and who, if nominated would again be elected A great cheer went up at the name of Moody Mr Ellis wound up by saying that the nominee of the convention, who ever he may be would be the next governor of Oregon

Sinnott of Wasco seconding Moody's nomination said that Moody if nominated would be elected by 10 000 majority

Are there any more nominations? asked the chair at 5 12. If not, the delegates will prepare their ballots

Just then, Willis of Multnomah invoked a cheer from Thompson by announcing 'Mr Chairman I am instructed to say that I will cast thirty three votes for D P Thompson"

The roll call of counties for ballots was called at 4 26 and occupied five minutes When Multnomah was called Willis deposited thirty-three for Thompson and Capt J A Brown Portland, and A W Lambert of East Portland voted against him. Lambert held the proxy of Shields, who was a Thompson man The divis on in the delegat on caused a smile to envelope the faces of the delegation

THOMPSON WINS

The counting of the ballots then began Thompson led off at a lively gait, and had six votes before Moody had one. Then they piled up and when he passed the 110 mark the enthusiasm of the Multnomah delegation gave way in a great yell of triumph Boise and Stevens waved their hats wildly at the rest of the delegation At 4 30 the official count was announced as follows

Thompson	167
Moody	82
Blank	6
J C Lee	1
Williams	1

Once more the Multnomah delegation gave vent to cheers and applause After it subsided Moody of Wasco, a son of the ex governor moved to make Thompson a nomination unanimous His motion went through with a whoop.

THOMPSON SAYS HE WILL WIN

'Thompson Thompson 'Give us a speech Thompson, Hurrah for Thompson," were the hurrahs that were heard above the din

Mr Thompson was in the lobby, in the rear of the hall and slowly made his way through the crowd to the platform His appearance was the signal for another burst of applause, which continued until he reached the platform Chairman Tongue then took him by the hand

Gentlemen of the convention" he said 'It becomes my pleasure to introduce to you, if he needs introduction Hon D. P Thompson, the next governor of Oregon"

Another cheer went up, after which Governor Thompson turned to the convention and addressed it as follows

Mr Chairman and Gentlemen of the Republican Convention of the State of Oregon I appreciate the high honor you have conferred upon me in making me the candidate of the republican party for governor of the state of Oregon I consider it the greatest honor you could confer on any man in the state, the way you have conferred it upon me I am not in the habit of undertaking a matter of any description and fa——"

Just then the Multnomah men broke out in another place and interrupted Governor Thompson's remarks with a cheer that fairly shook the hall When order had been restored the speaker continued

"I propose to be elected"

Mr Thompson said this bluntly in his determined way and caused more cheering and applause He resumed

"I propose on the 6th day of June to be elected and don't you forget it [Applause and cheers] I have been in this state all of my responsible life and my history is the history of this state. As you all know I began life as a blacksmith at Oregon City in the early days. I took up the business with the determination to stay with it until I should find something better Then I tried surveying for awhile until I should find something better than that Then I took up banking business and managed it for interested parties The bank people have been satisfied with my management and I believe that the same arrangement that can successfully conduct a business enterprise can conduct the affairs of the chief executive of this state. I propose to be governor [Applause.]"

I second the motion,' interrupted some one in the hall

"I do not propose that there shall be any power behind the throne [Applause] I shall not be cranky, but will agree to receive and consider any advice tendered though I shall not be governed by it. I propose before election day to visit many portions of the state and I shall see many of you again Gentlemen, I again thank you for your very flattering vote."

M BRIDE RENOMINATED.

Next in order was the selection of a candidate for secretary of state Judge Frank A. Moore in a brief speech presented the name of George W McBride Judge Moore said it had been his pleasure four years ago to nominate McBride for this position, and that the choice of the convention had been ratified by the people at the polls McBride was honored by every voter in the state and loved by every one in Columbia county

Judge A. H. Tanner seconded the nomination McBride was nominated by acclamation.

Next in order was the treasurership. C M Donaldson of Baker secured the floor and presented the name of J L Faull W J Cuddy, of Malheur seconded the nomination

Alexander of Umatilla, nominated J C Lessure

Senator J H Norval nominated W J Snodgrass

C E Wolverton mentioned J W Cusick promising that he would carry Linn county, hitherto democratic by 600 majority

Phil Metchan C M Cartwright E H Mix and J G Gray were rapidly placed before the convention Following is the vote in detail

W J Snodgrass	17	11
J C Leasure	14	14	14
Total	216	216	216

After the first ballot D M Dunne proposed that all but the three highest names should be dropped. A howl of disapprobation ensued, and the chairman stated that he did not consider it within the power of the convention to prevent delegates from voting for whomever they liked

After the second ballot the names of Cartwright, Gray, Mix and Snodgrass were withdrawn

After the result of the vote had been announced, calls were made for Metchan. He arose in his seat and said " Gentlemen of the convention I thank you for the honor that is thus conferred upon me I shall endeavor to prove worthy of your choice I will —[hesitating]

The Chairman—The convention will understand that Mr Metchan is a man of action, not of words.

Mr Metchan—I will get there, that's all. [Boisterous applause]

Motion to adjourn until 10 to-day and 8 last evening were voted down

SUPREME JUDGE SQUABBLE

J H Riddle nominated W R Willis for supreme judge. John C. Lessure named Hon J J Bellamy Handley of Tillamook, mentioned J S McCain, Bailey, of Fenton, spoke for J F Watson, of Hood River.

H H Hendricks of Gilliam county, obtained the floor He nominated in a brief but spirited speech Judge R S Bean of Lane county This at once brought B C Humphrey of Lugene, to his feet "I desire he said, on behalf of the republicans of the second judicial district, represented by their delegates here present, and at the special request of Judge Bean himself to say that this delegation is unanimously united to withdraw his name" [Loud cries of No! No!]

Mr Hendricks refused to withdraw his nomination

C E. Wolverton named D R N Blackburn E. L Fashum of Oregon City rose to second Bean's nomination in a brief spirited speech frequently interrupted by cheers and yelling but finally he desired that members of the house consider personal preferences and do what I think is for the best interests of the republican party as well as of the state I think I am serving the best interests of the republican party when I serve the interest of its men

I favor Mr Thompson because I think he possesses all the necessary qualifications to make a good governor He is intelligent, energetic, a practical and hid pendent, and not afraid to assume any responsibility that may devolve upon him I do not agree with Mr Thompson on some matters but all of us cannot agree with our candidates and as far as I am personally concerned I will never cast a vote for an independent and bear less man than for a man who pretends to be

A common remark. If you take Tutt's Pills you will not say anything like, and feel no bad effects. They act specifically on the liver, stomach and bowels, causing a free flow of gastric juice, which is essential to good digestion and regular bowels.

Don't Fear Now.

Rev. R. Bitts, Manata, Fla., says: "Tutt's Pills are held in high repute as a Liver Regulator. I hardly know how we could get along without them. Chills and fever have lost their dread. CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

The Alert Goes to Behring Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The Bulletin this evening says The dispatch of the United States steamer Alert to Behring sea with a crew large enough to effectively man captured sealery boats as though either no agreement is probable in the negotiations now going on at Washington, or that some concession in accordance with our claims has been or is likely to be reached.

The Post says The orders to fit the man-of-war Alert for service in Behring sea this summer are direct evidence of a determination that the government fully intends to give adequate protection to the sealing preserves. As she is immeasurably superior to the Rush and others that have gone on before, the protection will be greater than ever

California Wild Lands in Good Demand

SAN FRANCISCO April 16.—[Special Telegram.]—A brisk demand is reported for lands by land officers of the Central and Southern Pacific railroads. W H Mills of the former says that inquiry for timber lands is constant on the increase. An English company that has been buying lands in Yolo county have taken up eleven thousand acres tracts and have three forty acre tracts subscribed for In the Southern Pacific land office Land Agent Madden says that in April of this year so far sales surpass the sales of a similar per od in 1889 to the amount of $17 500 a very gratifying increase The sales are mostly in 160 and 320 acre tracts, in the counties of Fresno Tulare, and San Diego.

Rogue Nickels in the Slots

SAN FRANCISCO April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Secret Service Detective Harris this afternoon raided the rubber stamp factory of Klinkner & Co., and seized about 5300 discs made to represent nickels. Klinkner was taken into custody but was released on promising to desist from circulating the bogus nickels The discs were manufactured in Chicago, and are made of German silver

To Abolish Rebating.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—There is some talk of a movement on foot to bring the ticket agents here together to adopt some plan that will do away with the underhand business that has prevailed hitherto. It is found that cutting of passenger rates does not attract traffic one whit more than if the rates were at the full tariff schedule. The various roads all report their full share of the traffic, and at the Burlington office the report is that the cut has not increased business to any extent.

Canadian Pacific Will Hold the Fort.

ST PAUL, April 16.—[Special Telegram.]—A gentleman from Winnipeg prominent in railway circles, who is now in St Paul, spoke to-day of the reported union of the Northern Pacific and Grand Trunk for construction of a line west from Winnipeg to the coast though the Canadian border. Such a line would of course seriously affect the Canadian Pacific, and the gentleman referred to gave it as his opinion, as well as that very generally held in Winnipeg, that Van Horne has too keen a head for the interests of his road to quietly allow the entrance of a competition It is his very understood that the Canadian Pacific will take possession of Yellowhead pass through the Rockies on the first indication that the Grand Trunk is looking thitherward and that the recent construction of the Regina and Long Lake branch was pushed forward with that object in view The Canadian Pacific made a bitter fight against the entrance of the Northern Pacific into Manitoba at all but they were finally overcome. There can be little doubt, however, that they will continue to offer opposition to any company that will take away the monopoly they now enjoy Settlers in the country, especially in the district north of the Canadian Pacific, would be pleased to see a competing line that would afford them increased facilities for communication and says that if the bill passes the farmers will be forced to demand restoration of the old rates or abolition of the duty

FOR CHEAP SUGAR.

While the imposition of duties on live animals and other agricultural products cannot possibly do the farmers any good at home, the increase of trade certainly will be a great injury to them in markets abroad. Such a policy is certain to provoke retaliatory legislation from the various countries interested, and the farmers will soon find themselves without a market for their surplus products, either at home or abroad

No reduction has been made in the duties on necessaries in the schedules except that relating to sugar and molasses. The report criticises the sugar bounty, and protests against the gross favoritism and injustice of such a policy It says the bounty on last year s production would have been $7 520 000 but as this is expected to encourage producers to supply the entire domestic demand the ultimate result, even if consumption remained at last year s figure 2 700,421 302 pounds, would be an annual payment of $61 528 406 in bounties The sugar duty is defended as far more just and equitable than that on many other articles, and while the minority believe the duty should be reduced they cannot see the justice or propriety of making this article free, paying a bounty and then taking this excuse for imposing $65 000 000 additional taxes on other schedules.

The minority find it impossible to state with accuracy the effect of the increases. They express the opinion that the increase on tobacco will be $16,300,925 and other items show an increase of 45,000 000 Adding these amounts to the $40,055 622 shown by the committee s tables to have been added to the duties on articles remaining on the dutiable list, shows a total increase of the duties on articles still dutiable outside of the sugar schedule of about $65 000,000 and we are satisfied it is more than that We do not mean to assert that the bill will actually increase the customs revenue $65 000 000 over what it is but that it proposes to impose on articles on the dutiable list except sugar and molasses, that sum in excess of the amount collected on the same schedules last year It places upon the free list articles which yielded a revenue of $6 039 969 during the last fiscal year makes a reduction of $54 922 130 on sugar and molasses, and the two sums amounting to $60 962 099 being deducted from $65 000 000 leave but an increase of more than $4 000 000 in tariff taxation under this bill

McKenna dissents from the sugar schedule The bill, in its sugar schedule he says makes an arbitrary and invidious distinction between the sugar industry and other industries a distinction inconsistent with the principle upon which the bill is framed, and upon which it can alone be justified Protection, as understood politically by the class of all industries or of men A tariff may be a tax—a bounty is certainly one—fixed and unavailable, and increases with the production it encourages, and finally vanishes in competition with home products. A bounty abandons the home market to the foreign product a tariff secures it, is as useless as it is burdensome, and as odious as it is useless. It has no justification in the practiced principles or professions of the republican party If a bounty is useful for sugar why not for other things? In all the range of articles with which the bill deals are none fit for a bounty but sugar? If a bounty is a tax of less burden than is a tariff, why are sugar consumers selected for favor? The republican house of representatives should not set this example Who can say where the contagion of it will stop?

Speaking of the beet sugar industry in California, McKenna says "Must an industry be able to supply home consumption before it is entitled to protection? Other industries have not done this, Industries that have been protected in every tariff bill and are protected in the present bill One of the accusations against the present law is that it retains duties levied for war expenditures. If sugar is to be placed on the free list it will be puzzling to answer why it is so placed. Upon every principle upon which a protective duty can be applied to any American industry it must be applied to sugar Upon every principle upon which the protective duty can be denied to sugar it must be denied to every other American industry Protection must be universal or not at all It must be national or not at all The bill presented gives a bounty to silk and raw silk. This is as objectionable as the bounty on sugar.

The tariff bill as submitted to the house contained a number of changes from the bill as first passed on by the ways and means committee Among the more important changes are the following To section 20 of the internal revenue schedule which provides that after January 1, 1891 internal revenue taxes on snuff manufactured tobacco shall be $1 a pound, an amendment was adopted as follows Upon cigars which shall be manufactured and sold or removed for consumption for use there shall be assessed and collected the following taxes to be paid by manufacturers thereof On cigars of all description made of tobacco or any substitute therefor $3 per thousand on cigarettes weighing not more than three pounds per thousand 50 cents per thousand on cigarettes made of tobacco weighing no more than five pounds per thousand 50 cents per thousand and on cigarettes weighing more than three pounds per thousand, except as hereinbefore provided, viz. those wholly of tobacco, at $3 per thousand

In the case of nickel ore the proviso has been added requiring such ore to contain more than 7 per cent of copper to pay a duty of 1¼ cents per pound on the copper contained

Another amendment provides that goods, manufactured wholly or in part from any foreign country on the free list can not be entitled to admission into the United States.

Diamonds are put back to the present duty of 10 per cent a reduction from 20 per cent provided for by the bill as first passed upon

The duty on strap and bar tin is raised from the duty of $1 40 per thousand, as first proposed, to $2 per thousand

Burlaps are made free

Some changes, though no material ones are made in the flax schedule

Binding twine is reduced from 1½ to 1¼ cents per hundred.

The protest filed with the ways and means committee by the sugar men of Louisiana against the proposed bounty on sugar, is as follows We, the undersigned representatives of the Louisiana sugar industry, have read in the evening papers a statement that we have consented to the substitution of free sugar and a bounty in lieu of a duty on the article We desire to assure the committee that we have at no time consented to such a proposition, and we wish to state that we are opposed to any proposition that separates sugar from the other industries of the country affected by tariff legislation We request that the present rates of duty on the grades of sugar that we produce be maintained, and that we shall have the protection for our industry that we are willing to concede to the other industries of the country"

The most determined fight will be made on the tariff bill against the lead tariff on mixed ores The Northwestern men who have been advocating the tariff have been informed that they must be on hand with arguments and facts to show that the lead produced in Montana, Idaho and Washington mines is suitable for fluxing The Southwestern members are fighting this proposition hard, and insist that they have been deprived of a duty on hides and get nothing in the way of a compromise in lead Without much further amendment it is quite likely the McKinley bill will pass the house

Worsted Cloths Not Woolen Fabrics.

NEW YORK April 16—[Pacific Postal Special]—The jury in the United States circuit court has returned a verdict in favor of the importers in the case of Bain Joseph & Co vs. ex Collector Magone The action was to recover from the former collector of this port an alleged excess of duty, which plaintiffs, we l known importers paid under protest upon certain invoices of worsted cloths The case was of wide interest to the trade, involving the question whether cloths import should be classed as woolen fabrics, or manufactures of worsted

HOW HE WON WINNIE DAVIS

Abolitionist's Grandson to Wed the Daughter of the Slaver Chief

NEW YORK, April 16—[Special Telegram]—The story of the courtship of Miss Winnie Davis and Alfred Wilkinson, whose engagement is reported, is very romantic. Miss Davis came North four years ago to visit Dr Thomas Emory of Syracuse At a reception in her honor she was introduced to Alfred Wilkinson. Miss Winnie received a very cool reception in one or two houses here Wilkinson resented this and gallantly championed her cause The firm friendship thus engendered between them blossomed into love in due time Miss Winnie later on went to Europe and is still there Wilkinson, some two months since crossed the ocean and spent several weeks with her, slight seeing and pressing his suit Wilkinson is a bright and promising young lawyer about 28 years of age He is not rich but moves in the best society

He is a grandson of Rev Samuel J May who was a pioneer with Garrison and Phillips in the abolition movement. Not only in the United States but in Europe also did he fight for the cause On his removal to Syracuse May continued to be active in promoting anti slavery reform. Hundreds of slaves fleeing from bondage to Canada came to him for protection and help and never came in vain The date of the wedding has not yet been fixed, but it is believed it will be soon

No More Shoddy Postal Cards.

NEW HAVEN, Conn, April 16—It is probable that the manufacture of postal cards at Shelton, Conn, will be abandoned, owing to complications, financial, political and otherwise, which have arisen. William Wilkinson, a Shelton paper manufacturer, states that he will supply no more cardboard for Daggett, the postal card contractor, and will prepare no more samples for the postoffice department. He says Daggett owes him a large amount of money and that he (Wilkinson) paid for cardboard supplied Daggett from Lawrence Mass. Wilkinson claims to have expert testimony to show that the cards furnished are better than the samples furnished by the government. The keeper placed over the concern on yesterday's attachment was withdrawn to-day, and the employes were notified that they would be paid to-morrow

One roof of the American market at The Dalles caught fire on Tuesday morning, but was extinguished without aid of the fire department.

The Baker City Democrat is authority for the statement that some of the wealthiest people of the town have refused to pay the amount of their subscription to the stock of a new enterprise. If this is true, it shows that these people are not very anxious to place Baker upon the high road to progress and permanent growth.

The water commission to-day opened the sealed bids for Dalles City water bonds, says the Times-Mountaineer of the 15th, and they report that all were favorable bids. One of the bidders offers to give $1100 premium for all the bonds, and take them at 6 per cent., or in other words he offers to pay $101,100 for the bonds, and take them at 6 per cent. interest. If we are to have free water, it now seems that there is nothing in the way of having it.

Charley Blackhawk, a well-known dusky denizen of the reservation, got on a terrific jamboree at Pilot Rock Monday night, in imitation of his white brother. He enlivened the usually quiet village to such a considerable extent that prompt measures were necessary to quiet him, and Constable Ed Olcott and others captured and handcuffed him, chained him down and kept him till morning, when he was released, a good Indian once more.

An investigation of the affairs of the Chemawa Indian training school should be had at once, says the Salem Statesman. The superintendent has signified his desire for an investigation, and said that he would insist upon it being thorough and complete. If the actions of the management of the school have been straightforward, honorable and efficient, a thorough investigation will show it. For the good of the school, an investigation should be had at once.

The East Oregonian says an aged Chinaman, almost ready to drop beneath his weight of years, attracted some pitying attention at the depot last Monday. He was on his way to China to die in the land of his birth. The old fellow appeared to be afflicted with some skin disease, perhaps leprosy, and it was noticed that he was avoided by other Mongolians about the depot. His left hand was bandaged and was suspended in a sling, while there were suspicious looking spots on his face. At any rate, he was evidently a forlorn and friendless creature.

The Ochoco Review says THE OREGONIAN is not at all wide of the mark when it says the people of Prineville want railroad connection with The Dalles or at some point on the Columbia. We want that road and we also want the Oregon Pacific. Both are needed and both are expected to be built at some future date, but the people have been so often disappointed about the Oregon Pacific they have almost lost hopes in its being built in time to benefit the present generation. Though from present appearances it seems that work will be resumed on this route some time soon and for many purposes it will be the road for this country, as it will place the people here in reach of tidewater and will also make it possible for them to avail themselves of the surplus feed raised in the Willamette valley of hard winters.

WASHINGTONIANA.

David Wilson, of Gibraltar, is arranging to burn 1,000,000 brick for the construction of his four-story brick hotel 200 feet square and for the Chamber of Commerce building, 60x100, three stories.

When seven convicts were recently liberated from the penitentiary at Walla Walla, their first act was to get drunk; next, to beat a soldier, next to intimidate the city marshal, who, being no spring chicken, laid out the ring leader, and the rest are now hiding around lumber yards and hay lofts.

The new Presbyterian church of Port Townsend, one of the finest in the state, has just been dedicated. On the completion of the building the church debt was over $6000. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Chapman, appealed to the congregation with so much force and fact that in a very short time $7000 was raised.

The occasional letters from the Seattle Press exploring expedition into the unknown regions of the Olympic range are attracting considerable attention. The result of the expedition will be to add largely to the geographical knowledge of the state, and probably to open up an extensive and valuable country to settlement.

The Aberdeen & Hoquiam Railway Company is the name of a new corporation whose object is to build a standard gauge motor railroad between Aberdeen and Hoquiam. The capital stock of the company is $100,000, in shares of $100 each. The company will ask the two cities for right of way and for some land bonus besides from individual citizens.

The Hon. Van B. Delashmutt in an interview at Spokane Falls said referring the Coeur d'Alene country: "The mines are in good condition, and the prospects for the coming season were never better. The mines are about all running, and unless I am mistaken, a large amount of ore will be taken out. I don't think much new capital will go into that district for some time owing to the fact that there is a series of blackmail litigation that has had a tendency of preventing capitalists from going there.

The Walla Walla Journal utters the following lament: About 130 convicts are now employed making brick, and if we had 130 more they also could find employment, for trick will be scarce in Walla Walla this summer, and yet, with all the benefits accruing to us from the penitentiary, we sometimes wish it had never been located here, for every convict, after he gets out, hangs around the city like a pestilential disease, causes our officers trouble and our taxpayers an expense which makes them awful tired.

On Saturday last the Register, printed at Ellensburgh, made the following announcement: To-day the Daily Register will suspend for the time being. This is rendered so by the effects of the great conflagration of July 4, the short crops of last year, and the long continued hard winter, which have temporarily rendered times so stringent that many of our merchants cannot advertise. We have no kick on the town or its business men. They are enterprising and liberal, but as a matter of self protection and self preservation we must suspend before the sheriff steps in and accomplishes the work for us. For the past three months and a half the daily has not been self sustaining and the necessary expenses attending a daily are so great that we are simply unable to carry the load longer.

SILVER MEN AT SEA.

The Senate Committee More Radical Than House Members.

MONTANA REPUBLICANS VOTED IN

They Take the Oath at Once—The Chinese Census Bill Laid on the Shelf—Two House Contests Decided.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—[OREGONIAN Office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—The house republican committee on the silver question this morning heard the report of the sub-committee to confer with a sub-committee of the senate republican committee with a view to coming to a basis of agreement. The sub-committee reported that it had been agreed that the bill should provide for the purchase of four and a half million ounces of silver every month, the certificates issued on payment thereof to be receivable in lawful money. At first, it is said, the members of the full committee were inclined to adopt this as a basis and voted to do so. Afterwards, however, in discussing the manner of redeeming certificates a sentiment developed in favor of making them redeemable in bullion. This proposition was advocated by a majority of the committee, and the sub-committee were instructed to again confer with the senate sub-committee and endeavor to induce them to agree to provide for redemption of the certificates in accordance with the views of the house committee. A member of the senate sub-committee said in conversation upon the subject that no such agreement as that would be recommended by his vote. He did not believe there were five senators who favored redemption of certificates in bullion. The senator said it was expected that at this the east of silver purchased would be less than four and one-half millions of dollars per month, but that under the operations of the bill the price will be so enhanced that in a short time the cost of silver would probably surpass that sum. It was also expected, he said, that for a time, at least, other silver than the product of mines of the United States would be necessary to make up the full amount of monthly purchases.

Another senator said that it was rapidly becoming manifest that an agreement must be reached by the republicans, else a proposition would be made for unlimited free coinage and would pass both houses.

The meeting of the sub committees this afternoon was productive of no result. Another meeting will be held Friday.

As predicted in these dispatches more than two months ago, the senate, by a strict party vote seated Wilbur F. Sanders and Thomas Power as United States senators from Montana. There was no excitement, and the only indication that there was anything unusual going on was the very large attendance on the south side of the chamber. When the hour of 3 o'clock arrived Senator Kenna, taking for his text a part of John Sherman's speech, delivered some time ago, being the words, "Anything that will beat down that party and build up our own is justifiable in morals and in law," said these words were the only grounds which the republicans had for sustaining the position which they had taken. The senator made the charge that the republicans were proceeding without law or reason to perpetuate a great wrong. The democrats had evidently come to the conclusion that no amount of talking would change any republican votes and contented themselves with allowing the vote to proceed. During the voting Clark was in the democratic reserved gallery with two ladies, Sanders was in the republican reserved gallery with several ladies, while Power remained in the cloak room. Maginnis was in Philadelphia. When the last roll call was being taken Sanders came down in the cloak room also. After Sanders and Power were sworn they were taken in charge by Captain Bassett, the venerable doorkeeper, and escorted to their seats, which are on the extreme left of the democratic side, Power sitting directly behind Turpie of Indiana, who so unmercifully scored him the other day.

Senator Hoar immediately moved an executive session, in order to initiate the new senators into the mysterious doings of the body, and after instructions behind closed doors, the senators from Montana came forth equipped for their labors. They have not yet drawn for terms, but will probably do so to-morrow.

With the exception of Plumb of Kansas and Wolcott of Colorado, every senator voted or was paired. No one knows why Plumb did not vote, but he is eccentric, and it is supposed that some personal motive actuated him. Wolcott's brother is a partner of W. A. Clark in some mining operations, and he was very much disposed to vote for Clark's admission. Mr. Clark said that the outcome was what he expected, and that the revolving wheel of time would do justice to the men of Montana who had been cheated out of their rights and deprived of their votes in the United States senate.

Senator Allen this morning introduced a bill to amend the revised statutes to allow district attorneys and marshals in Washington to draw double the fees provided by the general law on that subject, but also providing that these officials shall retain as their compensation anything in excess of the present aggregate compensation. The amendment puts the officials in Washington in the same class as the officials in Oregon and Nevada.

Senator Squire, of Washington, introduced a bill to-day, which raised a great deal of favorable comment. It was for the erection of a monument in Washington City to Gen. Grant. He had the bill referred to his committee, and will soon make a favorable report.

The house committee on territories to-day began consideration of the bill introduced in the house by Struble to amend the act of March, 1892, in reference to bigamy. The bill is formulated so as to carry out more fully the provisions of the Tucker-Edmunds act by extending the Idaho test oath to Utah. The friends of the bill claim that the Mormon element evade the oath provided by the Tucker-Edmunds bill.

Representative Herndon has been receiving congratulatory telegrams from all parts of Oregon upon his renomination by acclamation. A large number of his colleagues were interested in his success, and called on him to-night to learn the news and offer him their heartiest congratulations.

IN THE SENATE.

Chinese Census Bill Tabled—Montana Republican Senators Seated.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In the senate Mitchell gave notice that he would address the senate Tuesday on his constitutional amendment for the election of senators by the people.

On motion of Mitchell the house bill granting the Palouse & Spokane railway right of way through the Nez Perces Indian reservation, Idaho, was passed with one verbal amendment.

The Montana election case was again taken up. As Daniel did not claim the floor to continue his speech of yesterday Gibson addressed the senate in favor of the democratic side. Kenna followed Gibson.

The house bill granting the Spokane Falls & Northern railway right of way through the Colville Indian reservation was passed, with amendments.

Wilson's amendment to the Chinese enumeration bill having been agreed to, 29 to 22, Steward moved to lay the bill on the table, on the ground that it would do more harm than good. The motion was agreed to and the bill laid on the table—yeas 35, nays 2, Dolph and Morgan.

The Montana case was taken up again, and the resolution declaring Clarke and Maginnis not entitled to seats agreed to, 38 to 19, Barbour, George, Kenna and Walthall voting with the republicans.

But few offered as a substitute for the resolution declaring Sanders and Power entitled to seats one declaring it to be the judgment of the senate that there had been no choice of senators from Montana. Rejected by party vote.

Resolutions declaring Sanders and Powers entitled upon the merits of the case to seats in the senate from Montana were agreed to by a strict party vote—yeas 37, nays 28. The oath of office was administered to the new senators, and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

Majority and Minority Reports on the Tariff Bill Submitted.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In the house the committee on commerce reported back adversely the resolution directing that the committee investigate the lifesaving service; laid on the table.

The bill was called up amending the alien land law so as to permit foreign capital to be invested in mines of gold, silver and lead, tin, cinnabar and copper. Pending discussion the morning hour expired.

McKinley, from the committee on ways and means, reported the tariff bill, and it was ordered printed and referred to committee of the whole.

Carlisle presented the views of the minority, and McKenna presented his individual views. They were ordered printed.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the military academy appropriation bill. After a short time occupied in its consideration the committee rose and the bill was passed.

The contested election case of Posey vs. Purnell, from the First Indiana district, was then taken up. The committee on elections reported unanimously in favor of the sitting member, and the report was adopted.

The contested election case of Bolen vs. Buchanan, from the Ninth district of Virginia, was next called up, and a resolution confirming the seat of the sitting member was adopted. Adjourned.

Wisdom's Road Much the Prettiest.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.] Secretary Wisdom, in a letter to Senator Plumb, thus outlines the financial policy of the government in the purchase of bonds. He says: "The operations of the department have not been conducted with a view to controlling the finances of the country, but in pursuance of a fixed policy to produce the most possible equilibrium of the natural current of events. The purpose of the secretary has been, and is, to pay off the bonds all the available surplus as rapidly as possible. In pursuance of this policy, and with a view to keeping in circulation the full established specie possible, purchases of bullion were for the most part suspended on January 29 the available balance of the treasury had been reduced to less than $10,000,000, and this entire amount, as well as such additional sum (about $20,000,000) as could be paid out through banks from time to time, was in addition to the entire surplus and $10,000,000 in addition were in circulation.

Enthusiastic speeches were made by Barin of Multnomah, Wood of Morrow, Nolan of Multnomah, Hon Thomas H Tongue of Lane and Conn of Clatsop. Humphrey of Lane and Conn of Multnomah also spoke. KNOCKS OF THE NOMINEES

THE MEN WITH STRONG FOLLOWINGS—THEIR PUBLIC CAREERS.

Judge Thompson is a man of the people, one who has reached his present high position by natural ability and hard work. As he tersely puts it, he "is a blacksmith by trade a surveyor by profession and a banker by occupation" and this fairly sums up the story of his life. The mental and moral qualities that can transform a blacksmith into a surveyor and then into the general director of numerous large enterprises are just the kind needed in the man who is to fill the state office of executive of the state. He was born in Cadiz, O., where he attended the common school and high school and learned the blacksmith trade. Being ambitious he studied surveying and finally adopted that profession and became the engineer corps of the Steubenville railroad, under General Jacob Blickensderfer, since chief engineer of the Union Pacific. In 1864 he came to Oregon, and during the time he was not ashamed to use his muscles with his brains in giving him a start in the world. For twenty years he held the position of United States deputy surveyor.

When the war broke out he was an officer of the First Oregon cavalry volunteers. During his term of service Thompson has been called upon to fill official positions. He has served as coroner of Idaho, four years as state senator for Clackamas county, three years as mayor of Portland, presidential elector in 1884, representative in the Clackamas county two terms and twice as school director. His earnestness, energy and practical common sense have always made him a central figure and influential factor in everything with which he has been connected. As a practical politician is better known from one end of the state to the other, and when his name appears in connection with an election is taken as a guaranty of the success of the undertaking. Mr Thompson never goes into anything blindly and he does not believe in failure. His reputation as a man of capacity of unquestioned ability and of successful conduct of all business which he has undertaken, has made him a prominent figure in the councils of the republican party of Oregon not only as a political worker, but because the people recognize in him the character of man that a great party should select for the highest executive office.

HIS OWN SUCCESSOR.

George W McBride was born in Yamhill county Oct 20, 1854, the son of Dr James McBride Was educated principally at Willamette university Salem Monmouth college In 1867 he left Yamhill county and went to St. Helens In 1884 he was elected to the Oregon house of representatives and subsequently chosen speaker of that body In 1888 he was elected secretary of state a position he has since held.

EIGHTEEN OREGON'S REPRESENTATIVE

Hon Botchan was born in Germany fifty years ago but he came to America and in 1862 to Oregon, settling the next year in Grant county Three years beginning with 1868 he was county clerk of Grant county from 1876 to 1878 he was county clerk and recorder of Grant county Judge and is the present incumbent.

Mr Botchan started out as a butcher Then he became a merchant, from which business he retired a few years ago Mr Botchan was before the state convention four years ago for secretary of state, and made a very creditable showing, scoring many friends by his manly course on the matter.

A railroad for him that he will carry Grant Harney and Baker counties by a very large majority It is said will fix it said get three fourths of the vote in his own county

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Robert R Bean was born in Lane county Oregon thirty-two years ago He was graduated at Willamette college in 1878 and at the state university in 1878, being a member of its first graduating class After being admitted to the bar he practiced law for some years. After Mr Bean's partnership with John M Thompson was dissolved for some years. After Mr Bean's death he continued to practice alone and was elected to the circuit bench of the Fifth judicial district.

Judge J F Watson was elected to the position of judge of this district for six years but was appointed to the United States district bench by President Harrison he resigned his place on the circuit bench and was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by a flattering vote

In 1885 he was renominated for the same office by a flattering vote and was elected by a rousing majority

Judge Thompson has been called upon to fill various positions in Masonic and social circles through out his district. He is a lawyer of quiet but earnest industry a judge of strict impartiality, an exemplary husband and father and a man of wide personal friendships

THE SOLDIER CANDIDATE

E B McElroy is well known throughout the state not only through his official career but also by his term of service as grand commander of the Oregon Grand Army of the Republic. His army life consisted of four years active campaigning. He served during 1861 1864 in the First West Virginia infantry recruited at Wheeling In 1865 he was discharged and re enlisted for veteran service as it is called in the One Hundredth Pennsylvania, with out continuing in it in Pennsylvania and was mustered out at Hilton Head at the close of the war in 1865.

It was then said that of the thirty two delegates to the Second judicial district, only six were for Bean His nomination was made by the Democratic caucus of Multnomah and a special communication from him to the Democratic convention specially requesting that his name not be used.

The first ballot was not taken until 10 o'clock and resulted Bean 33 votes were polled and necessary to a choice 25 Blackburn 10, McCain 1 Bean fell every ballot thereafter Blackburn 10, McCain 1 Bean fell every ballot thereafter Bean 33 Blackburn 10, McCain 1

Bean's withdrawal showed the requisite number of votes, and a demonstration of applause and congratulations followed, second only to that shown in connection with the nomination of the Governor Humphrey's name was then withdrawn and moved to make the nomination of Bean unanimous The motion was carried with a roar of approval.

KNOCKS OF THE NOMINEES

THE MEN WITH STRONG FOLLOWINGS—THEIR PUBLIC CAREERS.

Judge Thompson is a man of the people, one who has reached his present high position by natural ability and hard work. As he tersely puts it, he "is a blacksmith by trade a surveyor by profession and a banker by occupation" and this fairly sums up the story of his life. The mental and moral qualities that can transform a blacksmith into a surveyor and then into the general director of numerous large enterprises are just the kind needed in the man who is to fill the state office of executive of the state. He was born in Cadiz, O., where he attended the common school and high school and learned the blacksmith trade. Being ambitious he studied surveying and finally adopted that profession and became the engineer corps of the Steubenville railroad, under General Jacob Blickensderfer, since chief engineer of the Union Pacific. In 1864 he came to Oregon, and during the time he was not ashamed to use his muscles with his brains in giving him a start in the world. For twenty years he held the position of United States deputy surveyor.

When the war broke out he was an officer of the First Oregon cavalry volunteers. During his term of service Thompson has been called upon to fill official positions. He has served as coroner of Idaho, four years as state senator for Clackamas county, three years as mayor of Portland, presidential elector in 1884, representative in the Clackamas county two terms and twice as school director. His earnestness, energy and practical common sense have always made him a central figure and influential factor in everything with which he has been connected. As a practical politician is better known from one end of the state to the other, and when his name appears in connection with an election is taken as a guaranty of the success of the undertaking. Mr Thompson never goes into anything blindly and he does not believe in failure. His reputation as a man of capacity of unquestioned ability and of successful conduct of all business which he has undertaken, has made him a prominent figure in the councils of the republican party of Oregon not only as a political worker, but because the people recognize in him the character of man that a great party should select for the highest executive office.

HIS OWN SUCCESSOR.

George W McBride was born in Yamhill county Oct 20, 1854, the son of Dr James McBride Was educated principally at Willamette university Salem Monmouth college In 1867 he left Yamhill county and went to St. Helens In 1884 he was elected to the Oregon house of representatives and subsequently chosen speaker of that body In 1888 he was elected secretary of state a position he has since held.

EIGHTEEN OREGON'S REPRESENTATIVE

Hon Botchan was born in Germany fifty years ago but he came to America and in 1862 to Oregon, settling the next year in Grant county Three years beginning with 1868 he was county clerk of Grant county from 1876 to 1878 he was county clerk and recorder of Grant county Judge and is the present incumbent.

Mr Botchan started out as a butcher Then he became a merchant, from which business he retired a few years ago Mr Botchan was before the state convention four years ago for secretary of state, and made a very creditable showing, scoring many friends by his manly course on the matter.

A railroad for him that he will carry Grant Harney and Baker counties by a very large majority It is said will fix it said get three fourths of the vote in his own county

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Robert R Bean was born in Lane county Oregon thirty-two years ago He was graduated at Willamette college in 1878 and at the state university in 1878, being a member of its first graduating class After being admitted to the bar he practiced law for some years. After Mr Bean's partnership with John M Thompson was dissolved for some years. After Mr Bean's death he continued to practice alone and was elected to the circuit bench of the Fifth judicial district.

Judge J F Watson was elected to the position of judge of this district for six years but was appointed to the United States district bench by President Harrison he resigned his place on the circuit bench and was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by a flattering vote

In 1885 he was renominated for the same office by a flattering vote and was elected by a rousing majority

Judge Thompson has been called upon to fill various positions in Masonic and social circles through out his district. He is a lawyer of quiet but earnest industry a judge of strict impartiality, an exemplary husband and father and a man of wide personal friendships

THE SOLDIER CANDIDATE

E B McElroy is well known throughout the state not only through his official career but also by his term of service as grand commander of the Oregon Grand Army of the Republic. His army life consisted of four years active campaigning. He served during 1861 1864 in the First West Virginia infantry recruited at Wheeling In 1865 he was discharged and re enlisted for veteran service as it is called in the One Hundredth Pennsylvania, with out continuing in it in Pennsylvania and was mustered out at Hilton Head at the close of the war in 1865.

Mr McElroy came here from Pennsylvania in 1865 and located at Corvallis. Here he at once served as principal of the public schools then was elected to a chair in the State Agricultural College where he served until 1882. During his residence in Benton county he was superintendent of public instruction for six seven years. Then in 1886 he was elected state superintendent, which office he still holds.

STATE PRINTER BAKER

Frank C Baker, the nominee for state printer, was born in Monmouth (then Washington) county in 1851. His parents immigrated to Oregon in 1850, remaining in Portland 18 months, thence they moved to Lafayette Yamhill county where at the age of 14 Frank began his printing career with Editor Thomas Condit. Next we find him at Monmouth where he was one of the Oregon Statesman. Work as journeyman here led to Baker City, new Wasco county, where he worked on the Democrat for Boyd thence to Silver City, Idaho, and York for Hon Milton Kelly as compositor on the Idaho Statesman. Work as foreman on the Boise City Capital Daily and Tri Weekly Republican and Evening Herald and foreman of the Boise City Sentinel followed by his father and brothers. Here he was commissioned Multnomah Indian agent in 1880 which office he was serving his third term as president and of which he was a charter member and prime mover in its organization endorsed him unanimously and urged his nomination for state printer. He received the nominations and was elected under very adverse circumstances by a handsome majority. This is the first time in the history of Oregon that such a large plant of suitable presses and other materials upon sale and proceeded to do the work himself—not letting it out to others by contract, as had been the custom for years. He reasoned that he was elected to do the state printing himself and he has done it He has employed the best talent obtainable and takes great pride in saving to all applicants for work This is a strictly union office have you a card? When Capital Typographical union 210 was organized in Salem, it being after his present home the office of state printer he suggested to the committee on scale of prices that he had no objection to a less number of hours at the same rate of pay that the Portland union called for but that union decided to copy the Portland union's while with an expression of gratitude to Mr Baker for his fair dealing to the cause he so ably espoused Mr Baker is at this time of his election 1886 was the youngest state officer ever elected in Oregon and as he has proven faithful to the people of his native state, and to the cause of unionism in all particulars in the discharge of his duties it goes without saying that he deserves and will receive the indorsement of the organized laboring men of Oregon and the people generally on the 1st day of next June by being returned by a rousing majority

Condition of John A. Carr Reported to Be Quite Favorable

Arrived From the Bay City Portland Cable Road Complicated—High Water Prospects—The Foot Thief Captured

CONDITION OF CARR.—Mr John A Carr the target of James Walker's poorly aimed pistol shots was yesterday resting quite easy although his pulse was unusually excited on the afternoon of the shooting. The ball is supposed to be somewhere near the bottom of the abdominal cavity but it is thought that none of the vital organs are injured. Fresh symptoms, more serious symptoms would have developed ere this. Owing to the fact that the exact location of the ball is not known, however, no attempt at probing will be made. The bullet is probably in a place where it can do no harm and it may be the course of prudence to let it remain where it is. It is learned that John A Kramer the real estate man is the other victim of Walker's pistol shots as he succeeded one of the bullets in the right leg above the knee. The wound is painful though not dangerous and will heal. Walker was examined insane yesterday by the county physician and is declared insane. It is thought that he will be sent to the asylum at Salem.

THE FOOT THIEF IN IRONS.—The thief who has been creating trouble for the police and the past few nights is at last behind prison bars and the hearts of aching sleepless storekeepers who have been losing sleep in consequence of these midnight depredations can now sleep the sleep of the blest. The thief who was arrested was no less a person than Sam Hee was captured by Officer Thomas on First and D streets about 5 o'clock yesterday evening. He had a quantity of clothing in his possession and was making efforts to dispose of them. First and Third streets. It is supposed that these goods were stolen from the Chinese stores on Third streets. Most of the thefts of late have occurred about the city to second hand dealers and pawn shops while a few found their way to East Portland. Officer Thomas also has a man named Hall in custody charged with stealing clothing from the carpenters on the Couch addition where he had been employed. It is said that Hall has confessed to the crime and implicated Hee. Hall is also suspected of having committed a number of other thefts in different parts of the city. Hee will be arraigned in the police court this morning and Hall will be taken before the grand jury.

THE STAGE OF WATER.—If we are favored with a few more such warm days as the present one a good rise in the Columbia and Willamette rivers may be expected. Yesterday no person need fear having very high water this June. The river is rising quite fast and is very high and the water now stands six feet one inch above low water mark. It is generally understood that if the weather for a week or so will keep warm the snow in the mountains will melt and come down and it will have the effect of keeping the river pretty well all the time but in the final rise the snow will be so nearly gone that at the highest water will cause no inconvenience from extremely high water as has been predicted. It is stated that Snake river is coming up pretty lively and unless very cool weather should set in the river is not expected to jump its boundaries.

THE CIRCUS TENT PACKED.—Notwithstanding the threatening weather and the strong counter attractions at the playhouses the first performance of McMahon's circus last evening was witnessed by several thousand people. The tent was crowded and everything went off smoothly. Much attendance for the opening night speaks well for the class of the show. The performers are all artists in their line and it is to this admirable selection that the popularity and reputation of this circus is due. McMahon knew what he was about when he picked out his men for performances will be given every afternoon and evening this week. The largest tent covers nearly the entire square bounded by I J Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

GAS AND ITS USES OF IT.—One of the incorporators of the Drain Natural Gas Company being broached in regard to this new enterprise yesterday talked with more evasiveness than fluidity. He talked in that dark mysterious way that would lead one to believe that the enterprise is a great thing and though he refused to go into particulars he said that the company intended to sink a shaft at once. The location being in the vicinity of vast coal fields they expect to find oceans of gas. This would be a great town for blacksmiths as their profits would be inflated at small expense. The development of these gas wells will be watched with interest as it adds another to the many reasons for the rapid growth and future look as if there was method in his madness.

COFFEE HAS TWO TRAVELING COMPANIONS.—Detective John Coffee returned to San Francisco by last steamer having in his charge F Gel, the jewelry swindler and a small boy named Harry Briggs. For this work by the American Jewelry Company, for disposing of a large quantity of their goods and appropriating the proceeds to his own use. He was arrested by the Portland officers and Detective Coffee took him back on requisition papers. Briggs is wanted by his mother who lives in Portland. Her son ran away from home and was captured here. Coffee left for home immediately after leaving his charge.

CARD BOARD.—A balloon ascension was made at Chutes park last Sunday afternoon by William Long an amateur in the business who gave one of the best ascensions of the season. In making the descent he came down upon the roof of a house near the metropolitan. The lady inmates of the house were very much frightened at such an unusual call and thought he must be hurt. Mr Long on seeing their fright gave her an exhibition of his dexterity as an athlete to show them that he was uninjured.

THE MANTLE FALLS ON MR. CROSS.—At the caucus of the Clackamas county delegates it was agreed to present the names of H E Cross and G W Prosser to the Marion county delegates as candidates for joint senator and permit the Marion county delegation to choose which of the candidate which should seem to the latter best qualified to represent Marion county in the senate to say nothing of this arrangement the caucus carried out the main idea of Mr Cross' nomination was duly ratified.

OUR CATTLE SYSTEM.—Thomas C March of the John A Keebling Sons Company of Trenton New Jersey arrived here a few days ago and who is making a tour of the United States examining the different cable systems save after a thorough examination of the Portland system, that it is the best on the coast. Mr Nesbitt has had a very large experience in the cable business, having had charge of the Chicago system under C B Holmes for seven years. He leaves for the east to night.

DEATH AT DICKERSON.—Mr Benjamin Decatur Butler of Hicksville Wash died at his home April 13. Mr Butler was born in North Carolina March 31 1820 and immigrated to Missouri in 1837 where he lived to 1852 coming one of the early pioneers of Oregon. He had been actively engaged in business for many years but for several months previous to his death he had been confined to his bed. A wife and four children survive him. Death resulted from heart disease.

KNAPP IS ALL RIGHT.—The article in the Evening Telegram of yesterday regarding the mysterious disappearance of Wilbur F Knapp, the bicyclist may give rise to apprehensions in the minds of his friends, for which there is no occasion. Knapp is rusticating on a farm in the country and will turn up before the roses bloom. He went away without making much of a splurge but he has an object in view and knows what he is doing.

LARGE REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.—The firm of Russell & McLeod brokers of 147 First street have just completed the sale of the quarter block on the northeast corner of Washington and Seventh streets for $80 000 cash. the quarter block on the north st corner of Jefferson & Burnside for $21,500 cash and 200 feet of river front in Watson's addition for $32,000 The sales made by this well known firm since January last amounted to over $300 000

MORE RIP RAP.—A barge with rip rap has just been relieved of her load alongside the central pier of the steel bridge A great many small rocks have been dumped into and the foundation and the cavity which is said to have been worn at the base of the piers by the force of the current and direction of the sand at the bottom of the river during the flood must be nearly filled up.

LUMBER FOR MELBOURNE.—The American ship Belle of Bath has left this port She finished discharging the railroad iron which was kept in for ballasting and taking on several hundred tons of ballast left Portland yesterday for the Columbia at noon yesterday in tow of the Oak Shaman. She shipped this time on a cargo of lumber for Melbourne Australia.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 17.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A good ticket is the outcome of the work of the state republican convention. There is no name on the ticket for which any citizen of the state, unless he be a democrat and opposed on principle or instinct to voting for republicans, can for good reason hesitate to cast his vote.

No man in the state is better known than the candidate for the office of governor. D. P. Thomp on is a man of earnestness, integrity and force. His capacity for business is of the first order. In the many public positions in which he has been tried he has served ably and faithfully. With him public office is a public trust. He is an able man of affairs, has no hobbies, will take care of the interests of the state, and will make a record as governor that none has excelled.

Honorable and efficient performance of public duty entitles George W. McBride to re-election to the office of secretary of state. In his hands this important office has been administered with industry and fidelity. Always attentive to duty, painstaking in his methods, uniformly courteous in his demeanor, careful in all things of the interests of the state, he has been a model public official and servant; and his renomination without opposition is a proper testimonial to his public and private character.

The candidate for treasurer, Philip Metchan of Grant, has long been a resident of Eastern Oregon. He has led an active and prominent life in business in that part of the state, and is well known for his public spirit and private worth.

Frank C. Baker, named for re-election as state printer, has performed the duties of that office during the last four years with promptness and efficiency. As a practical printer he has taken pride in the work, and has done it in a manner quite above criticism. He has set up at the capital an excellent establishment for execution of the work, and on his proven merits is entitled to re-election. E. B. McElroy, as superintendent of public instruction, has likewise shown his efficiency, and his renomination is an acknowledgment of it.

One of the most important duties of the convention was that of naming a candidate for the supreme bench. The election of R. S. Bean will go far toward restoring confidence in that tribunal. Judge Bean is a man of judicial temper, of ample experience, of unsullied reputation. No one will ever be suspected of having, through him, a "pull" on the supreme court.

Mr. Hermann has been a very active, industrious and successful member of congress, and his nomination for a fourth term is due to general appreciation of this fact. He has learned the duties and opportunities of a member, and therefore can probably be of more service to the state than any other man who could be sent at this time to congress. Apart from and beyond this, Mr. Hermann's candidacy represents the position of the state of Oregon on the tariff question, and they who oppose him will do so from their desire to uphold the free-trade-raw-material and protected-goods policy of the democratic party.

Few persons read party platforms; fewer still remember or care to recall anything they contain. Parties are judged by their whole course and history, not by their occasional utterances. In the present platform there is about the usual amount of platitude and buncombe. The idea evidently was to anticipate the democracy and not fail to cover all the ground, so that that party might have nothing left to stand on. There are, however, a few distinctive features worthy of notice; among them a statement of the position of the republican party on tariff and public works, and a declaration in favor of the Australian ballot system.

The republican party of the state is now before the people. The democratic party will come forward soon: but it will be Sylvester Pennoyer, nothing more. He is its personnel and principles, the summation of its series, its be-all and end-all. There is nothing of it but Pennoyer, and of Pennoyer nothing but his peculiar personality.

REPUBLICAN MONTANA.

The admission of the two republican senators from Montana settles a tedious and complicated contest. Yet the act is not entirely clear. Nobody outside of the state can pretend to comprehend the technical merits of the intricate problem which began with the popular election last fall, and ended with the final action of the senate. It is doubtful if any one in the state understands it even. But this much is sufficiently clear; that the state is naturally republican upon a fair vote, and that the senators finally admitted represent the political opinions of a majority of its people. The state has been republican upon a square issue for three years. If it was not made so by the immigration which followed its general opening to settlement by the building of new railroads four or five years ago, the work was finished by the change of sentiment influenced by the tariff issue, of which the first election of Carter gave evidence. Had Montana been a state in 1888, her electoral vote would have been given to Harrison. The natural tendency of public opinion there has been masked and defeated by the corporate influences, always too powerful in Montana for its good, either as a territory or as a state. In its sparsely settled condition, with such population as it had grouped about mines and along railroads in process of construction and dependent upon them for maintenance, Montana has been the spoil and victim of mining and contracting companies, who have controlled its politics and divided its offices among themselves. The accident that the most of these rich and powerful local autocrats were democrats, gave that party a share of local power out of proportion to their real popular strength. There is general agreement that the last election was not a fair expression of the popular will. There is probably too much truth in the wholesale charges of improper influences on both sides. There was less actual buying and selling of votes in the territory than of manipulation of bodies of voting workmen by their employers. Railroad contractors and mine-owners assembled voters of their own party where they would do the most good, and removed those of the other from the precincts where they were registered just before election. Then there was a good deal of illegal naturalization and some manipulation of the complicated Australian system to exclude voters. Both parties played these tricks, but the democrats, having more power in controlling bodies of laborers, profited most by them and managed to defeat the popular will. It will be less easy to carry on this kind of politics in Montana as time goes on. Immigration is gradually filling the state with a more independent and settled population and the economic and industrial influences that make for republican opinions are growing stronger there year by year. It will be quite safe to count Montana as a republican state in 1892.

Mrs. Amelia Bloomer and her husband, D. C. Bloomer, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding in Council Bluffs, Ia., a few days ago. This statement is of interest chiefly through the proof that it furnishes of the ability of a woman to survive notoriety that is based upon ridicule and misrepresentation. Mrs. Bloomer is an intelligent, womanly woman, healthful and happy, notwithstanding the fact that she was placarded over the country forty years as a monstrous, unsexed creature, who sought to usurp the domain of man by wearing bifurcated garments, and by urging all women, who valued their health, to follow her example. In point of fact the dress which she invented, and which was known as the "Bloomer costume," was not the hideous, unwomanly thing that the paragraphists and satirists of the nation described, though it was a decided departure from the long, heavy skirts, tight waists and scant undergarments that have formed the conventional dress of women for ages. Ridicule was too potent a force for it to make way against, however, and it has long been discarded by the few who adopted it, including, it is said, even Mrs. Bloomer herself.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND FREE DIVORCE.

Two women of conspicuous intellectuality and absolute purity of private life are advocates of free divorce. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the daughter of a celebrated jurist of New York, Daniel Cady, bluntly argues that free divorce is preferable to the frightful demoralization consequent upon chronic domestic warfare. Since some view marriage as a civil contract, some as a religious ordinance, some as a relation to be regulated by the state, others by the church, while still others hold it an odd to be left to the individual, Mrs. Stanton is clear that we are not prepared for a national law on the subject. She repudiates the Christian doctrine of marriage as propounded by the Apostle Paul, who taught that the sole reason for it is that man may gratify instinct without sin. On this idea the doctrine of celibacy gradually crept into the Catholic church. The marriage service of the Church of England, which incorporates the Pauline doctrine, she deems offensive to decency. Granting that the companionship of man and woman, "the development of all that is noblest in each other, the building up of a home and family through conscientious parenthood to be the object of marriage," Mrs. Stanton asks the question, "If the relation brings out the worst characteristic of each party, or if the home atmosphere is unwholesome for children, is not the very justification of the union wanting and the marriage practically annulled?" She quotes John Milton in denunciation of marriage where lack of sympathy and content indicates in the parents radical physical unsuitability, which results in badly organized offspring. Milton speaks of children born of unhealthy and unhallowed connections as "of unlawful birth, and heirs to the misfortune of being trained in a household where discord and bitterness stamp their demoniac features." The interest of the state, Mrs. Stanton argues, and the interest of the individual demand that all unions in which the real object of marriage is defeated be legally dissolved; and in defense of her view that incompatibility of temper, which defeats the two great objects, should be the primal cause of divorce, she quotes Milton as saying: "Of all insulting mockeries of heavenly truth and holy law none can be greater than that physical impotency is cause sufficient for divorce, while no amount of mental, or moral or spiritual imbecility is ever to be pleaded in support of such a demand." Her conclusion is that the consequences of discourt in marriage are so fatal to the usefulness of the home, the good of society and the solidarity of the state that free encouragement to divorce ought to be given. She views the question from the stand-point of individual sovereignty and individual happiness, in denial of the old Roman or pagan idea that the interests of society are paramount.

She would have the question of divorce, like marriage, settled as to its most sacred relations by the parties themselves, "neither church nor state having right to intermeddle therein."

The property and children should be viewed and regulated as a civil contract, and this done she would have the union dissolved with as much deliberation and publicity as it was formed. We quote:

> There might be some ceremony and witnesses to add to the dignity and solemnity of the occasion. Like the Quaker marriage which the parties could set themselves, so in this case, without any statement of their disagreements, the parties might simply declare, that after living together for several years, they found themselves still unsuited to each other and incapable of making a happy home.

In other words Mrs. Stanton, instead of making divorce a reproach would make it respectable, recognized by society as a duty as well as a right, to be executed in all the preliminaries as to the division of property and guardianship of children without recourse to the courts. We quote further:

> The enemy of marriage, of the state, of society, is not liberal divorce laws, but the unhealthy atmosphere that exists in home itself. A legislative act cannot make a unit of a divided family.
>
> The rapidly increasing number of divorces, so far from showing a lower state of morals, proves exactly the reverse. Woman is in a transition period from slavery to freedom, and she will not accept the conditions in married life that she has heretofore meekly endured.
>
> When the mother, with all her steadfast love of home and children, her natural aversion to change, demands release, we may rest assured her reasons for sundering the ties are all sufficient to herself and should be to society at large.
> The frequent demands for divorce simply mean that we have not yet reached the ideal marriage state. Divorce is a challenge to our present system. Evolution has been the law of life. The relation of the sexes has passed through many phases, and is likely to pass through many more.

Helen H. Gardner ably supports the view of Mrs. Stanton: She points out that an enormous per cent of our criminals come from the families of those who are denied divorce by their church, and concludes that "it is not for the honor of the wife that a loathsome marriage relation be indissoluble, that it can lend neither dignity nor happiness to the husband, that it is one of the fruitful causes of diseased and criminal childhood, and that it is, therefore, necessarily, a menace to society."

These views of two of the ablest women in America are maintained in England by Mrs. Mona Caird, in the Fortnightly Review, and by Miss Alice Bodington in the Westminster Review, who lament over the institution of marriage as a cruel obstacle to the full moral and intellectual development of women, and both would find a remedy in "contract marriage under certain limitations," the breaking of any of the terms constituting ground for divorce according to the agreement, and both would require that a certain time shall be specified as proper notice of an intention to end the contract. The remarkable thing is that all these women who champion free divorce are good women. Two of them have been most happily married, and all of them are woman suffragists. They are logically woman suffragists, because in the suffrage they see their best hope to enact their radical views on the subject of free divorce. There is a deal of truth in what Mrs. Stanton says of the disastrous, moral and social consequences of bad marriages to the individual, the family and the state; but, in spite of the church, the law continues so liberal in its practice that there would seem to be no need of any present agitation for free divorce. The steady multiplication of causes for divorce proceeds rapidly under the legislation of both England and the United States, despite the frantic denunciation of the churches that hold all marriages as adulterous unions that are in violation of the law of the church. Episcopalian women in increasing numbers marry men whose divorces are not for "scriptural" cause; society does not ostracise them and as long as it does not the church will fulminate in vain. Mrs. Stanton can afford therefore to rest her soul in peace. She and her fellow advocates of "free divorce" do not need the suffrage to force a reform, which, by the liberality of masculine law-makers and the free construction of courts, may be said to have already practically become the law of the land. The unanimity of these woman suffragists on both sides of the water for "free divorce" is, however, a most interesting and significant fact. If it should become part of the woman suffrage platform it would probably popularize it with a good many men who have found marriage a misfit. By the way Mrs. Stanton's illustrious authority, Milton, was not altogether an impartial witness as an unprejudiced philosopher, for he was, like Socrates, Shelley, and Albert Durer, the victim of a "misfit" marriage.

WHAT WILL IT COST?

In 1818 congress passed a pension law for the indigent survivors of the revolution. President Monroe argued in his message that by a delay of even a few years the opportunity would be forever lost. "Indeed," said he, "so long already has been the interval that the number to be benefited by any provision which may be made will not be great." The number to be benefited was supposed to be 371, at a cost of $40,000 for the first year. But the number of pensions actually allowed under this act was 20,485, costing $1,847,000 for one year. Under the pension law of 1853 for certain widows of revolutionary soldiers, the estimated number of beneficiaries was but 300, but the actual number of pensions actually allowed was 5742. In 1878 a Wisconsin congressman, discussing the the proposed repeal of the arrears law, declared it would cost $7,000,000, and may cost $10,000,000." The arrears repeal bill was passed and four years ago the pension commissioner estimated that it would cost the country $250,000,000. The act of 1818 was passed more than thirty-five years after the close of the revolutionary war, and only twenty-five years have elapsed since the end of the civil war. The dependent pension bill, as passed by the senate, provides for a pension of $12 to all veterans who are disabled for self-support. The present estimate of increased pension appropriations under this bill is estimated at $5,000,000, but the house bill places on the pension roll all of the surviving soldiers of the late war who are now 62 years of age, and who served ninety days in the army or navy, and the remainder as fast as they arrive at that age, and those who, not having arrived at the age of 62 years, are suffering from disabilities which incapacitate them from earning a livelihood.

This act of placing on the pension roll all soldiers and sailors on arriving at the age of 62 years, for constructive dependence is an extravagant measure, for there must be thousands of veterans, who are amply provided with property and the means of support without labor. To pension these men on the ground that they had reached the age of 62 years is an absurdly unjust measure and its estimated cost will be at least $40,000,000, for the bill also provides for the widows of the soldiers who have reached the age of 62 and for all widows of soldiers, irrespective of the cause of death of the husband, provided it is shown they are dependent upon their own labor for support. The principle of this bill is the same that was wrongfully applied to the veterans of the Mexican war whose vicious precedent is now quoted to plague us. If either house or senate dependent pension bill becomes a law not less than $50,000,000 will be added to the present annual pension appropriation and swelling it to over $150,000,000, and should estimates prove as inadequate as to those made for the cost of the act of 1878, these bills will add at least $200,000,000 to the present annual appropriations for pensions. Mr. Cheadle, of Indiana in advocating the service scheme persuasively said that it would cost only $648,000,000, which provoked Allen of Mississippi to reply that "the country would better let the Grand Army of the republic take the government. The difference between himself and the gentleman from Indiana, was that he wanted to pay federal soldiers in honor, while the gentleman wanted to pay them in cash." This was biting sarcasm but it was richly deserved.

SALVATION FOR THE HEATHEN.

THE OREGONIAN some time ago was sharply criticised by a clergyman of Portland because it published the frank statement of an American naval commander and an English official in India to the effect that orthodox American missionary work showed small fruit because its methods were indiscreet and impracticable. The Rev. Joseph Thomson, an eminent Scotch missionary, who has for many years labored among the heathen of Africa, in the Contemporary Review for March says that the Christian worker, compared with the Mohammedan missionary, has accomplished very little in Africa, because he has tried to do so much. He has seldom comprehended the problems he has had to face. Filled with much enthusiasm and more erroneous ideas, he has often done little more than throw his life away, with but small result to the cause. Here is a passage from Missionary Thomson worth quoting:

> The missionary, as a rule, has ignored the fact that men's minds can only assimilate ideas in proportion to their stage of development. He acts as if he could in a single generation transform a being at the foot of the ladder of human life into a civilized individual, and raise a degraded heathen at a stroke to the European spiritual level. Filled with such beliefs, he has ever attempted, in defiance of all common sense, to graft Christianity in its entirety upon undeveloped brutish brains. Instead of taking a lesson from his successful Mohammedan brother-worker in the mission-field, and simplifying the presentation of the gospel truth, he has generally done his best to stupefy his hearers with views and doctrines which have been beyond their spiritual comprehension. Before any great advance will be made in the Christian propaganda in Africa, a total revolution in the methods of work must be accomplished.

On the other hand the success of the Mohammedan missionary has been excellent in its civilizing work among the natives of Central and Western Soudan, and in its beneficial influence "in raising up a barrier against the devil's flood of drink poured into Africa by Christian merchants." As compared with the progress of Mohammedanism in Africa, Christianity in those lands, Mr. Thomson confesses, has been at a standstill, because our missionaries enter the field "imbued with the unworkable traditions of bygone times, and hampered by the unsuitable theological training for the ministry which they have received among a civilized people, and which in Africa is worse than useless."

This is the testimony of a man who has spent his life in the missionary fields, both in East and West Africa. It may be asked what Mr. Thomson meant by the words "hampered by the unsuitable theological training for the ministry which they have received among a civilized people." He doubtless refers to the dogma still cherished by the American Foreign Board, "The heathen who die in their sins perish forever;" or, as President Wayland put it years ago, "They are exposed to eternal misery, for, dying in their present state, they will be exposed to all that is awful in the wrath of God." Bishop Alonzo Potter once said: "There is one pagan soul that depends for salvation upon you and you alone. For you it is to say whether at the last day there shall be on your head the guilt of its blood or the glory of its redemption." This is the "unsuitable theological training" that Missionary Thomson declares has brought Christianity to a standstill in Africa compared with Mohammedanism; and this is the theological training that is to-day beginning to be treated with abhorrence and contempt by the students and professors at Andover, at New Haven and the Union Theological seminary. The American board will not admit that the justice of God makes future probation of the heathen who die without knowledge of Christ essential, despite the fact that the great majority of the Presbyterians rest their application for the revision of the Westminster confession on the fact that it is clear, beyond controversy, that Paul intended no salvation for the heathen of Africa, because he speaks of the negro as corruptible and assimilate, and instead of repealing the pagan by a better theology, which executes a man ignorant of Christ as promptly as one who knew Christ and rejected him, he puts himself into human touch and sympathy with the life of the pagan negro even as the Jesuit missionaries did with the Indian in Canada and the Mongolian in China and Japan. Eternal torment for those who reject Christ might seem tolerable, but eternal torment for the heathen that never had a chance to know Christ is a doctrine that ought to be what it always has been—a stumbling block to orthodox missionaries.

A CHANCE FOR PEACEFUL CONQUEST.

The tour of Chauncey M. Depew through the South has resulted in a surprise both to himself and to the leading Southerners who met and entertained him on the various stages of his journey. The record of this tour proves that it would be a good thing if the leading republican statesmen of the North would visit the South more frequently. This is the sensible, certain, philanthropic and patriotic way to break the solid South as the bulwark of the national democratic party. Various surprises in the Northwest admonish the republican party that through the intrusion of new issues it cannot depend upon that section for success. The school question in Wisconsin and the liquor question in Iowa have been water on the democratic wheel in those states. The people are likely at any time to be switched off at a critical time on a side-track foolishly constructed from opinions irrelevant to the main question. While new combinations are thus formed, and political calculations are upset in favor of the democracy in the great Northwest, republicans will, if properly sagacious, work the South in the interests of the party through whose policy that section is growing great and prosperous. Judging from the reception accorded Mr. Depew, and his statements relative to the progressive spirit that is abroad in that portion of the country, it is not impossible for the republican party, through the efforts of its leaders, in intervals of political excitement, to gain in the South all that it loses through the introduction of new local "issues" in the North. There is but one way in which sectional bitterness can be disarmed and fraternal feeling restored between the North and South, and that is through friendly intercourse between the intelligent people of the two sections. If republicans are wise they will spare no effort to get into the confidence of the South through this channel. The time for coercion is passed. It had its day and was successful to the extent that force can be made successful in compelling submission to distasteful rule. The time for conciliation is now at hand, and it will be the fault of the republican statesmen of the North if they do not see and improve the opportunity to make a peaceful conquest of the Southern prejudices that survived the war.

THE DECLINE OF THE OYSTER.

The numerous friends of the oyster have recently taken serious alarm at its decadence in what was formerly its stronghold, in Connecticut and other locations of the Atlantic coast. The oyster farmers and the United States fish commission have struggled against the somewhat occult causes that have tended to this decadence, but their success in staying it has been far from satisfactory. The area occupied by oyster beds decreased from 15,000 acres in 1883 and 1884 to less than 800 in 1888. Furthermore there have been no "individual sets" within two years, and four years being the limit of their productiveness, the old beds will be practically valueless in two years more. The star-fish is one of the oysters' greatest enemies, and notwithstanding the government fish commissioner has spent two years with a crew and steamer at his disposal in the study of this destructive creature, no remedy has yet been found for the pest. He has, however, discovered another potent cause for the depletion of the oyster product and one that must tend to destroy the appetite for what is left. The sewage that daily pours into Long Island Sound and settles down upon the beds is regarded as fatal to the health and prosperity of the oyster. This view we can readily accept, since Captain Platt of the commission, while pursuing his investigations found the oysters of the Connecticut beds "discolored, tasteless and evidently unhealthy." In explanation of which his dredger brought up a deposit from the beds so foul that it was almost impossible to examine it. A report of this kind is certainly calculated to reduce the appetite for the oyster from the waters of Long Island Sound, and enable lovers of the bivalve to regard with resignation the great falling off of the product of the Connecticut oyster beds. While United States Fish Commissioner Stevenson speaks hopefully of a revival of this industry, as far as the destruction of the star-fish will tend to this object, believing that science will, in time, furnish means of destroying this pest, it is plain that sewage poisoning is a matter that cannot be so easily controlled. It is not probable this will be attempted, since before it could possibly be accomplished, if at all, the "discolored, tasteless and evidently unhealthy creature" of Captain Platt's report will have been poisoned beyond hope of recovery from the foul deposits of the sewers of the great cities. The oyster beds of Virginia and Maryland are not subject to this evil, but they are haunted by the star-fish, while the impossibility of knowing whether the product is from the foul beds of the Connecticut oystermen or from the clean grounds of those further down the coast, will have a tendency to lessen the demand for the canned product. Indications, therefore, point to the fact that the busiest day of the oyster is ended. The growth of the industry, of which it was the product, was phenomenal. It has engaged a vast amount of capital and given employment to an army of men, and is entitled to a place of honor in the industrial world in an era of unexampled energy and enterprise.

The task of the czar of Russia is a difficult one. Briefly stated it is the dual attempt to keep the truth from getting out of Russia and to keep the truth from getting into Russia. In the former line nothing more dastardly or more unsuccessful has been attempted than the false report given out of the recent "revolt" in Siberia. According to official accounts the exiles had obtained a printing press and were printing nihilistic literature for circulation in European Russia, and that being called to account for such disloyal conduct they defended themselves with revolvers so that they really had to be shot down. As a matter of fact, the "revolt" was merely an instinctive resistance without weapons, and against fearful odds, against a decree that meant slow death by starvation and cold, and the massacre that followed was as unprovoked as it was bloody. This is Russia's exclusive business, probably, but it is possible, at least, that the world of humanity will not always be content to dismiss the question with this statement.

Prophet Erickson, of Oakland, is equal to the occasion. The tidal wave that was to have swept that city and San Francisco Monday did not come rolling in, it is true, but he was not to blame. It was a simple matter of afterthought on the part of the Almighty that kept the water back, and those who fled before the prophecy of evil are warned to remain on the hilltops until the prophet is granted another divine interview, explaining the situation. A myriad of jests have fallen upon the head of the prophet, but it is clear, beyond controversy, that Erickson's predictions have had immediate and salutary success among the heathen of Africa, because he speaks to the negro in comprehend and assimilate, and instead of repealing the pagan by a better theology, which executes a man ignorant of Christ as promptly as one who knew Christ and rejected him, he puts himself into human touch and sympathy with the life of the pagan negro even as the Jesuit missionaries did with the Indian in Canada and the Mongolian in China and Japan. Beyond a confused idea that they will employ an eternity in singing hallelujahs, amid a subdued flapping of wings, po-tuting submissively meanwhile around a great white throne, these people do not appear to have much of an outlook into the beyond, of which they prate so unceasingly; but they are, in the main, a quiet, inoffensive folk, clannish and self-supporting, having little property to be taxed and costing more ambitious property holders little in the way of court fees and charitable donations. There is small satisfaction in posting a people so passive as fools, since they return no answer to the charge, but quietly and innocently proceed to prove it by promulgating their adherence to a new folly.

Stanley and Emin Pasha are engaged in railing at each other in a strain that is, to say the least, unseemly, considering their present prominence before the world. The question of veracity raised between them is one which the public cares very little about. Stanley, being naturally desirous of making the most of the fame which his rescue of Emin brought, probably claims too much honor in the premises. At least the latter appears to think so, and intimates very broadly that he would eventually have worked his way out without the assistance of the great explorer. Whether the one is presumptuous or the other ungrateful, will make little difference, however, in the eagerness with which the scientific world will listen to Stanley's tales of the "dark continent."

The international copyright bill, which the present congress is urged to pass, is approved not only by American authors, but by publishers, printers, binders and paper and type makers. It provides among other things that all books to which the protection of the American copyright is afforded shall be published from type set in this country. The London Times, commenting upon this provision of the bill, says that its enactment would make the great cities of the United States the book publishing centers of the world.

The United States treasurer received a conscience contribution of $1 18 recently, which the sender said was principal and interest of money taken from the United States mint in Philadelphia in 1886. This is said to be the only theft committed in that institution during the past seventeen years. The action of the conscience-stricken individual can only be explained on the hypothesis that he was thoroughly disgusted at the smallness of the sum and the slow accumulation of interest thereon.

Henry Irving has once more repudiated the notion that he intends to go into parliament. "Not only," he says, "do the circumstances of the actor's work forbid such a possibility, but the work itself needs a calmer atmosphere than is to be found in the strife of public needs and personal ambition of such a lofty kind."

The late George H. Boker, the Philadelphia poet, was pronounced in his youth by N. P. Willis, who spoke with authority, to be the handsomest man in America. His intimate friend, Charles Godfrey Leland, says that the busts of Byron were remarkably like Boker, though Boker was the finer looking, and in figure much more imposing.

The sultan of Turkey has the literary bee buzzing in his oriental bonnet. Not only does he write plays and have them acted at his own expense, but he recently sent the manuscripts of a novel, written in French, to a Parisian publisher. It was rejected, as the illustrious author did not put his name to it. Now the Parisian publisher is half insane with regret.

Emperor William is thus written of by one who claims to know him well: "The present emperor is the most charming youth, no matter what people say to the contrary, and he has much of the gamin de Paris about him, being full of fun and quite free from absurd stiffness and vulgar bucksram. That he is remarkably well educated and clever goes without saying, for he is the son of his mother."

William L. Scott, recently said that he would give his $10,000,000 for good digestive apparatus, and now it is said of J. D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the United States, that he looks as though in ill-health, and his face is almost ashy. It is the face of a man who is never free from worry and responsibility. His brows have settled into a permanent frown. The poor multi-millionaires are having a tough time of it.

Thomas Gutheau, proprietor of the Esmond, has returned from a flying trip to the Sound. He is very much pleased with the country, and says that Tacoma, Seattle and several other enterprising towns sport metropolitan airs that are indicative of prosperity and growth.

Oregonians Abroad.

Under date of April 12, the following note, written at Chicago, was received by THE OREGONIAN last evening. "Dr. August C. Chicago Carpenters to Parade—Ouse ul Bright Typ writer Players—Slave Im po. ation From England.

CHICAGO, April 16—[At the close of o evening a great majority of the b calaver ters, Lathers, Painters and plumbers ca off indefinitely. There is no w k f a All idle work had reached the st place before which they could not p the assistance of the carpenters. N n done to-day in the offices of the bosses did not open as a to start up work.

Preparations are being made to-day for st parade of carpenters to-morrow. The mason strike was peaceably settled, the granting of 10 per cent increase in wages a per—from 40 to 50 cents per hour. The common labor question is the only one remaining unsettled. The bricklayers' strike seems to have no terminus. The men seem to have no the situation so far as evidenced by complete suspension of building operations estimated that 2,500 men connected with building trades are now idle.

NEW YORK, April 16—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Over 1,500 coke ovens were shut down suddenly yesterday by the Frick Schoonmaker Coke Company. Notice was given last week of their suspension. Over 1300 men are thrown out of employment. The cokers have threatened a general strike if this action was taken. The object upon having the production restricted by closing down all the ovens in the region of Connellsville, if necessary, two days a week, so that all workers may share equally the burden.

NEW YORK, April 16—The convention of the International Amalgamation of Seafaring Men and Firemen reconvened this morning. A motion of sympathy with the striking carpenters of Chicago was adopted.

The convention decided to elect a special committee charged with the duty of organizing the lake district and Pacific and Atlantic coast organizations into one body. The Pacific coast has already come in.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Concerning rumors to the effect that the administration would be resorted to in effecting a settlement of the molders' strike, Colonel John Tobin, commissioner, stated that no overtures had been made to him by either party to act as arbitrator. As it was not in the province of his affairs, he would not take the initiative in such proceedings.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The Coast Seamen's Union is indulging because Captain Healy, of the United States cutter Bear, stated to-day that he would employ no more union men. The Alaska Packers' Association has announced its intention of shipping more union men as a consequence of the late resolutions made against Captain Healy while in Alaska.

CHICAGO, April 16.—To-night several hundred men employed in Armour Bros.' packing house at the stockyards, asked the firm for their deposits of money. The demand amounts to a notification that the men intend to strike the 1st of May. There is considerable uneasiness in all the packing houses over the eight hour agitation.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—Employes of the United States Express Company have been notified that salaries will be reduced 10 per cent, May 1st. The reduction starts at the office of president and runs down to the poorest paid employee of the company.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The carpenters' bosses refuse to arbitrate with their workers. The latter will fight, and they say they will do so to the bitter end. The bricklayers have $10,000 on hand to back them. The brickmasons will go out in a few days.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 16.—At the joint convention of miners and operators this morning, the scale committee reported that they were unable to agree, and a new committee was appointed.

SNAKE RIVER MINES.

Great Development Expected This Year—Good Road Appropriation Wanted.

WEISER, Idaho, April 15.—[To THE EDITOR.] Spring is coming on rapidly in this section. Grass is well started and stock is again picking up. Losses are not nearly so great as first reported. Both the stock and farming interests will be greatly increased this year in consequence of the large immigration to the mines. Boom will be a decided one and will be ready to start with the opening of spring. Prospectors are filing out to the Seven Devils country, and there is little doubt that many new localities will be found. Reports from the Snake river region along the Seven Devils country, and also to the north, that the whole region along the Snake river for 100 miles, will become a mining district. The Clearwater country will be found as rich as the Coeur d'Alene, and the great wait is in the matter of transportation. Another road from Lewiston to the mines is now under construction, and the appropriation for which was secured by Senator Shoup, will be completed by July 1st. Idaho,

LABOR TROUBLES CULMINATED

Action of the Carpenters Will No Doubt Precipitate Matters, and Consolidate the Difficulties—The Clan Mackenzie

When Mayor DeLashmutt called the meeting of the common council to order last evening there were only five members present. Scoggin soon came in leaving absent Woodward, on leave, Forbes and Hoyt

There was an entire absence of the jollity which usually characterizes the members as they gather in the auditor's office before taking their seats. They seemed to be oppressed with the vastness of the political issues at stake and went at the business as if determined to get it through as soon as possible. Not a single question came up for debate and Auditor Matthews, by looking through the many long communications beforehand, is able to give the gist of them without having to read them entire to the council which greatly facilitates business

TWO MORE APPLICATIONS.

The application of the Multnomah Street Railway Company for a franchise on Sixth and Seventh streets seems to have created the impression that such franchise is a good thing The committee to whom the ordinance was referred did not report upon it and now they have two more somewhat similar to muse upon

PRESENTED A PETITION

The Portland Cable Railway Company presented a petition asking the right to construct and operate a single track cable railway street car line from the intersection of Jefferson and Sixth, along Sixth street, and North Sixth street to H and along H to North Fifth, and also for a single or double track railway along Alder street from Fifth to Sixth Petitioner applied for such franchise on April 18 1888 and was then refused, but believes the growth of the city since then has shown such lines to be necessary and pr or right is claimed to the franchise by priority of application therefor Referred to judiciary committee

Under the appropriate head Farrell introduced an ordinance granting the franchise asked for, said railways to be completed before January 1 1892, and to be run and operated in conformity with the requirements of ordinances heretofore passed granting franchises to said company which was read twice and referred to the same committee

WENT TO THE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE

Another ordinance was introduced by Farrell by request granting to the Willamette Bridge Railway Company the right to construct and operate a street railway on certain streets in the city of Portland. They ask for streets as follows Beginning at Second and G, and running west on G to Third and north on Third to H so as to connect with the line across the steel bridge to East Portland Also from H and Third up H to North Sixth and up North Sixth and Sixth streets to Taylor, thence on Taylor to Front, and along Front to Morrison to connect with the company's lines across the Morrison street bridge

This was also read twice and referred to the judiciary committee.

THEY EARNESTLY PROTESTED

Messrs C H Dodd and E V Holman being present as a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, were invited to make known their business. Mr Dodd, in a lengthy speech, presented on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce a remonstrance earnestly protesting against the granting of a franchise to any street railway company to lay a track on Front street as being wholly unnecessary to the public convenience, destructive to the commercial interests of the city, and calculated to obstruct the travel and business now confined to those limits, directly impairing the value of property adjacent thereto This was accompanied by a remonstrance to the same effect signed by some twenty property owners on the street and some seventy members of the mercantile community Mr Holman in a brief speech concurred in what had been said by Mr Dodd and the remonstrances were referred to the judiciary committee who now have their hands full of street railway business.

THEY MUST PAY A LICENSE.

Scoggin introduced an ordinance to license bill posters and those engaged in distributing advertisements. It provides that all such persons shall pay a license of $25 per quarter A penalty of $10 to $25 fine or from five to fifteen days imprisonment is provided for violation of this ordinance. The ordinance was read twice and referred to the judiciary committee.

PRESENTED A COMMUNICATION

Superintendent of Streets W S Chapman presented the following communication:

PORTLAND, Oregon April 16 1890

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Portland —Gentlemen I feel it incumbent upon me to inform your honorable body that the recent surveys for city improvements along and in the vicinity of S street and T street, appear to show that all former surveys, including the original location of the lots and streets, were erroneous and developing a discrepancy of nearly two feet. As part of the recent improvements of S street have been made to conform to the old surveys and others are placed on the new line, there is an offset of nearly two feet.

Furthermore the changed surveys will require the moving of many fences and in all probability not a few houses and street improvements. Therefore if legal the practical remedy, as it appears to me, would be to have the old surveys adopted and a line of monuments set in every second or fourth street which line should be the base of survey of all lots and streets within one or two blocks on each side of it. This would not only settle as present discrepancy, but prevent future disagreements, as the cause of such changes in the surveys of those streets is the carrying of all natural errors in making measurements to the northward from S street instead of distributing them so that all discrepancies of measuring a mile is piled up at S street and becomes considerable

When the original surveys were made the ground was more or less obstructed, so that more error was unavoidable than now when the streets are cleared and paved but I doubt that it is legal to so upturn surveys which have been made and adopted for fifteen or twenty years and I am convinced, it is not the just and practicable proceedure for any l ses by whomsoever located, may be annulled by the succeeding surveys

W S CHAPMAN, Supt. of Streets.

On motion the communication was referred to the judiciary committee.

ON THE BUILDING COMMITTEE.

Mayor DeLashmutt appointed as additional members of the committee on building a city hall Messrs. Gerdes and Scoggin

ROUTINE WORK.

There was the usual number of petitions for correction or cancellation of taxes and considerable routine work was done in the matter of improving streets etc. but taken all in all the business transacted was of less importance than usual.

SUICIDE IN THE PORTLAND HOTEL

William G Bradley, a Kentucky Lawyer, Grows Tired of Life and Cuts His Throat With a Razor

The new Portland hotel which opened under such favorable auspices only a few days ago was yesterday the scene of one of those unavoidable tragedies that are liable to occur at any time and in any place.

William G Bradley a young Kentuckian evidently tired with the worry and cares of life put an end to his mortal career by cutting his throat with a razor Bradley came to Oregon from Worthington Ind. in December last and soon secured employment with E G Beardsley the Albany real estate dealer for whom he worked until the 1st of March He came to Portland about ten days ago and took a room at the new hotel Beardsley came down from Albany Tuesday and had quite a talk with him Beardsley appeared to be in a despondent frame of mind, as some of his own fine prospects did not material ize and going to calculations. Mr Beardsley cheered him up as much as possible and made an appointment to meet him the next morning.

Bradley retired at 10 o clock and Mr Beardsley according to promise put in an appearance at the hotel yesterday morning at the hour agreed upon Bradley however, failed to appear and Beardsley after waiting a reasonable time inquired for the number of his room. Having been given the number he went to the room and rapped at the door There was no response. Getting a chair to stand on Beardsley looked through the transom and the cause of his friend's failure to keep the appointment.

Bradley was lying on the floor dead. A deep gash was cut across his throat and in his right hand he still retained the death dealing razor. His face was ghastly pale and the shaving mug on the bureau Bradley must have been seized with the impulse upon ending his existence as a handful of bills testify. He was probably one of those unfortunate men who are developed on the spur of the moment by favorable circumstances and until then an unthought of opportunity.

The remains were removed to the morgue soon after and the coroner held an inquest at 2 30 P M The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts and dispatches were sent to his relatives in the East.

The deceased was about 36 years of age five feet ten inches in hight and must have weighed about 200 pounds. He was handsome in appearance and a man of fine address.

He leaves a wife and child at Worthington Ind., where he was formerly engaged in the practice of law

LABOR DIFFICULTIES

The Trouble Between the Builders and their Employes Has Culminated

The trouble between builders and their employes which has been impending ever since the carpenters gave notice that on May 1st they would demand that they be allowed full pay for eight hours as a day's work has culminated in a strike of the carpenters, which will probably include all the various crafts belonging to the federated trades. The trouble has been precipitated by the action of carpenters in the employ of V Hepp who quit work a week ago because he refused to discharge a non union man who was working for him.

The employers sometime since organized themselves into a builders exchange or union for protection of the r interests against strikes on the part of their employes, and they had decided to refuse the demand of the carpenters on May 1st for a reduction of the hours of labor

The strike of Mr Hepp's employes was brought before a meeting of the Builders Exchange Tuesday evening and they decided to discharge all the carpenters in their employ This was done yesterday morning Some of the builders were in favor of postponing any action in the matter till May 1st and making a stand against the demand for a reduction of hours of labor The majority however decided to take another course and to resist the demands of the union for the discharge of a non union man and to refuse to recognize the union

The by laws of the Builders Exchange require that in case any trade in their employ strikes if the matter is not settled in a reasonable time they will discharge all other trades in their employ, and stop work altogether

As the Builders Exchange decided to discharge all carpenters the trouble may be more properly called a lockout than a strike

The Carpenters Union held a meeting yesterday afternoon at which it was decided that they would not return to work till all the matters on which they and the builders are at variance are settled and as was stated by a member the plumbers, painters and other unions belonging to the Federated Trades will be called out this morning

The plasterers bricklayers and stonecutters do not belong to the Federated Trades but as one branch of work on a building cannot go on independently of the others the probability is that there will be a general cessation of building work

There is a general feeling of relief among the builders on account of the trouble being brought to a focus It had to be met, and as long as it was impending there was a feeling of uneasiness and none cared to enter into building contracts. Now there is a prospect of a settlement being arrived at which will last all summer and contractors can go ahead with their work without further uneasiness

As to what the outcome of the lockout or strike is to be no one can tell but it is not likely that either side will carry the matter to extremities If it is not settled in a short time the public will probably take a hand in the matter and through a meeting give expression to their sentiments, which must have weight

THE CLAN MACKENZIE

Work Nearly Completed—Captain Whitelaw Tells What He Knows About Ferguson

By far the greater part of the work on the Clan Mackenzie has been accomplished The hole is nearly closed up and the stern will be spliced in a few days. Although twenty men were discharged by Captain Whitelaw owing to the small space into which the repairs have been worked forty six still remain and they are rapidly forcing the bows to completion

Captain Whitelaw said yesterday "Only a few more holes are to be drilled, when we will put the bowsprit in The vessel is now ready, so far as I am concerned to receive her cargo" The old upper deck of the forecastle head has been torn away and a half dozen carpenters were put to work yesterday recovering the steel joists with new lumber

In the matter of important new evidence which the Union Pacific claims they have in the person of John Ferguson of the Mackenzie who has been most interesting under the title of second mate, Captain Whitelaw said The young man is evidently desirous to bring himself into trouble His story now must differ widely from his first one, or the company would not take so much interest or place so much dependence on him When I went down on board the sunken ship, shortly after the collision Ferguson told me that he was awake ten minutes before the Oregon struck and that he noticed the light up in the rigging burning brightly Also that a second after the collision he sprang out on deck and the light was still bright"

Mr Whitelaw gave it as his opinion that young Ferguson who is about 21 years of age had been associating with women of questionable character and came to the conclusion that the pittance allowed him aboard the ship was entirely too small, and that he has taken his first step in the road that leads to the penitentiary, in the hope that he will be handsomely paid by the railway company

It has transpired that Ferguson's father who resides in England, is a part owner in the Clan Mackenzie.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

All the Houses Well Patronized—Comic Opera Next Week

An audience differing little in strength of numbers and equally as enthusiastic as that of the previous night witnessed the third production of the Hanlon Brothers' "New Fantasma spectacular pantomime at the Marquam Grand opera house last night and it is safe to say that had it not come on to rain the seating capacity of the house would have been taxed The piece went like clockwork, all the many tricks, transformations and thousand other pleasing, interesting and laughable features calling forth tremendous applause. The piece has undoubtedly caught the people's fancy, and it is safe to predict for it one of the largest week's business the house has yet had.

NEW YORK CASINO OPERA COMPANY

The coming of this comic opera company, which opens at the Marquam Grand on next Monday evening is the celebrated successes "Erminie" "Nadjy" and "The Black Hussar," will be pleasantly anticipated by all who have never seen this much talked of production, which entertained New York City for over 350 nights, but it will be looked forward to with especial interest by the more fortunate readers who have witnessed its representation and know the delightful character of the entertainment they are promised. Heretofore it has seemed as if Gilbert and Sullivan possessed a "corner" in the interest of the opera seeking public but "Nadjy" and "Erminie" each have superseded even the New York record of the celebrated "Mikado," for its run is nearly double the length of the term of favor extended to Gilbert & Sullivan's "Mikado" in the Metropolis. In these days of numerous failures, when but about 10 per cent of the productions score a success it is remarkable that a work by authors comparatively unknown on this side of the Atlantic, should retain public attention with wonderful profit for over two years in one theater Mr Rudolph Aronson's admirable company needs no words of commendation, for both it and the operas are equally well known to every theater patron.

BARBED WIRE DECISION.

A Clear Statement of the Case from Washburn & Moen's Attorney

The Washburn & Moen Patents Sustained—All Parties Handling Unlicensed Glidden Barb Wire Liable to Prosecution for Damages

PORTLAND Apr 16—[TO THE EDITOR]—A communication in Tuesday's OREGONIAN upon the barbed wire patents is calculated to give an erroneous impression as to the recent decisions in our United States circuit court and to lead the ugitless people into trouble. Judge Deady's decision was not merely as far reaching as there represented When the original suit against Knapp Burrell & Co was brought upon the main Glidden patent No 157 124 they set up for a defense that the reissued Glidden patent No 6913 also owned by Washburn & Moen covered the invention and anticipated it This made it necessary to bring in the reissued patent before the court, and the adjudication finding it invalid simply destroyed one of the defendant's answers and cleared the way for a full consideration of the main patent No 157 124. So plainly was this recognized at the hearing that counsel for Washburn & Moen since ed to this court that their only objection to this reissued patent being held invalid was the fact that unscrupulous persons would try to make capital of it by pretending that it was a decision upon the main question

The main patent No 157 124 is untouched by this decision and the court only decided that it could not at this time allow the extraordinary remedy of a preliminary injunction before the case was tried upon its merits As Knapp Burrell & Co are a responsible firm it makes no practical difference as they can respond in damages at the end of the case here or in the supreme court to which in the end it will by one party or the other be undoubtedly taken

The only case amongst the many brought ever decided against Washburn & Moen upon the merits of this celebrated controversy was in their case against the Be Ha All Company a most appropriately named company and was promptly appealed by them to the supreme court of the United States, where it is now pending, and will be reached in about a year

Judge Brewer now on the supreme bench as circuit judge has already upheld the Glidden patent No 157 124 in one thoroughly contested case and as this and all other decisions except the one referred to although differing as to patents have practically upheld the invention of Glidden it is fair to presume that the supreme court will do the same.

The main case here is proceeding as usual and evidence will soon be taken upon it when the defendants will have an opportunity to prove if they can that the barbed wire that they themselves sell and respond to their customers as "Glidden wire was not invented by Glidden but by some one else calling in this a heavy accounting will be had with them and all other infringers

The Washburn & Moen Manufacturing Company are in earnest and propose to protect their patentsnor will they waste their time chasing around shadowy and fugitive corporations when they can deal with responsible wrong-doers who will be able to respond in damages. Persons dealing in illegal barbed wire must do so at their peril

ARRIVALS AT ANACORTES.

Several New York Capitalists Promise to Invest in Anacortes

ANACORTES, April 16.—[Special Correspondence.]—Several New York capitalists are in the city to-day, and it is understood that they have in-vested largely in real estate here. A number of families from Eastern Washington and Oregon arrived here last evening with the intention of making the city their future home.

The land case involving a portion of the com-pany's claim, and affected with the administration of affairs in the dull city shroud of this point, have petitioned the county commissioners for the ap-pointment of Captain Worth, a leading citizen, to the office. The retiring country and "pauper" county commissioner, who have been working the books and otherwise doing up unsus-pecting and verdant travelers, are to be sat down upon in regulation style, and their nefarious business brought to a quid. Capt. Worth is be-lieved to be just the man to put a stop to these nefarious practices.

The weather here is all that could be desired. The town is full of people, and there is no end to the building operations under way. W. H. M.

Stanford and Huntington Reconciled.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Through the efforts of Colonel Crocker, Stillman and Reed, Stanford and Huntington met this morning at Colonel Crocker's office, and a reconciliation was effected. After the two had exchanged a few words and the matter had been satisfactorily arranged between them, and the two had withdrawn, the three peace makers proceeded to discuss plans for making known the momentous fact to the public. At 1 o'clock Huntington and Stanford sat down to lunch together, and on their return from the lunch room they were such a happy and contented look on their countenances that one never would never have supposed there to have been the "we-men of a mutual misunderstanding" only two or three days ago. "I do not know that I am authorized to make any formal statement," said Col. Crocker, when seen by a reporter. "It is suf-ficient to say that Mr. Huntington has explained in his remarks made in the board of directors on his assuming the presidency in a manner entirely satisfactory to Senator Stanford.

The Vancouver Shooting.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 16.—[Special Cor-respondence.]—Dr. J. B. O'Brien, who yesterday fired at Father Becker, had a preliminary hearing before Justice Geoghegan this morning, and was held for the grand jury in $1000 bonds. The weapon used by O'Brien was a 38-calibre, double-action revolver, which contained three empty shells and two unexploded cartridges. These two would have ended the life of Father Becker, as in trying to fire them O'

POSTAL FACILITIES

What the Committee Says About Their Inadequacy.

A THOROUGH INVESTIGATION

Amount of Mail Matter—No Blame Attached to Mr Roby—A Great Increase—Money Order Statistics, Etc.

A the reg lar meeting of the Portland Chamber of Commerce held Monday evening the committee appointed to inquire into the inadequate postal facilities in this city submitted the following exhaustive report

PORTLAND Oregon April 14 1890

To the Officers and Members of the Portland Board of Trade—Gentlemen Your committee appointed to inquire into the inadequate postal facilities in this city respectfully submit the following statement of facts in relation to the postoffice here and such recommendations as we think necessary to remedy the evils complained of In the short time at the disposal of your committee we have not been able to obtain all the information we desired but we have been favored with such reports from the postoffice department as will enable us to present a fair showing of the present condition of affairs

THE RECENT INVESTIGATION

Upon the organization of the Portland Chamber of Commerce it was found that the postal facilities were not sufficient for the business and population of the city and a committee was appointed to investigate the matter and report to the Chamber This committee was composed of Messrs Ladd Failing and Corbett and after a careful investigation of the facts presented to them by the postoffice authorities reported to the Chamber that the postal facilities were inadequate and that the postoffice should be made a distributing office with direct mail connections with the principal points in the state and with the Atlantic states and Europe

Acting upon this report the Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee consisting of Messrs Failing Corbett and Ladd to wait upon the postmaster general and present the matter to him in person This committee visited Washington in January 1889 and had an interview with the postmaster general and the first assistant postmaster general at which the facts were presented to them and the necessity for the establishment of a distributing office at Portland was urged upon them

The committee was informed that the postoffice department was then considering the question of establishing a number of distributing offices throughout the country and that Portland would be one of the cities selected for such an office

Subsequently the committee had an interview with the first assistant postmaster general at which the matter was again presented to him and the necessity for the establishment of a distributing office at Portland was urged upon him

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Stocks were dull to-day, specially for the general list and the unlisted department, but a few specialities still retained some speculative interest, and fluctuations in their case saved the market from complete stagnation. The great feature of trading to-day was the great activity in Lackawanna and its unusual strength. It was the only stock which attracted any attention among the inactive stocks. Denver & Rio Grande shares were strong, and Oregon Navigation moved sharply on small deals. The market closed quiet and steady to firm, at insignificant changes for the day.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REVIEW.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—[Special Telegram.]—Business has been fair during the past week. Church local bank clearings were $2,000,000 less than for the same week in 1889. Cereals, as a rule, are active and stiff.

Wheat is hardening, and in the market shippers will now pay $1 36@1 37½ for the general run of No. 1. This is the highest point reached for several months. The demand is fair at the advance. Freights are strong in sympathy with wheat, and iron vessels are being chartered at 5s United Kingdom, Havre or Antwerp. Barley is also favorably affected by the rise in wheat, although quotations have not yet been marked up.

Barley has again gone up. Feed is now at 87½@92½c per cental, and brewing descriptions are selling freely at $1@1 10. Stocks of all kinds are not large, if any, in excess of inquiry. Oats are steady, at the recently advanced prices. Rye is lower and very dull. Corn is quiet. Yellows are steady at $1 12½ as an average price, while white has dropped 5c cents. Ground barley has gone up. Bran and middlings are fair and in good demand.

Overland shipments of California produce in March via the Southern Pacific railroad were 38,000 pounds. The leading items of produce were as follows: 366 centals barley, 16,708 centals wheat, 21,382 gallons brandy, 585,727 gallons wine, 1,000 pounds leather, 2,881,240 pounds canned goods, 431,200 pounds dried fruit, 2,494,600 pounds green fruit, 271,340 pounds raisins, 190,430 pounds hops, 347,280 pounds hides, 1,082,630 pounds wool, 27,000 pounds quick silver, 1,278,360 pounds canned salmon, 85,780 pounds pickled salmon.

Hay meets with fair demand, and receipts are sufficient, without being large. Few variations in prices have occurred. Lima beans are firm, and whites have been advanced a notch under good demand.

Butter continues depressed, at 14@16c per pound for ordinary to fancy. Cheese is weak at 9@ per pound for choice mild new. Eggs are steady at 12½@17½c for California, and 14@15c for Eastern. Stocks of all kinds about balance the demand.

Potatoes continue to arrive liberally from the East, and the market is now heavily supplied with them. Prices show no further change, nor do dealers expect any.

Onions are scarce and dear; choice sell up to $2 50. Australian has in city sent us 1000 crates, which sold at $3 65@3 90 per crate.

Hops are neglected and nominal.

Dealers report a fair demand for spring wool at last week's prices.

Dried fruits are so well cleaned up that it is next to impossible to find a good round lot of prunes, peaches, apricots or apples.

The association of farmers has met again, and a further revision of prices for hides is the result.

The meat market is amply supplied, and prices are unchanged.

Canned goods show no change in quotations. Canners report fair demand for assorted canned fruits for the East, which is gradually reducing stocks. The outlook for the coming season is encouraging. Canned salmon, though still low in price, is a dealer, as stocks here lately been considerably reduced by large overland shipments, and are now down to a manageable point. There is nothing doing in futures. Canned oysters have again been marked up. Provisions are unsettled, owing to the feverish condition of Eastern markets. There is an advance in hams, and dealers report increasing activity in all pork products.

Merchandise shows few variations this week. Nut oils has again declined. Coal rules firm, and Australian grades continue to tend upward. The week's receipts were 3865 tons Australian and 2050 tons coast. A private circular says: "Prices have been strongly maintained during the week, notwithstanding that arrivals have been more liberal. Now that it is an established fact that imports of foreign coals from all sources for the next few months at least, will be exceptionally light, it has become an assurance that present values cannot be disturbed for at least six months to come. If during the year the Richmond wheat market should show any unusual appreciation, thereby causing an advance in wheat charters, however, coal would be the first article to feel the change, by a softening of values. The wool market is over-stocked and weak."

SUNNY OREGON

—HOME OF THE—

Fig Tree and Vine

GRANT'S PASS is located on the Oregon & California Railroad, 300 miles south of Portland and in the heart of the famous Rogue River Valley—the Santa Clara of Oregon.

GRANT'S PASS contained but a single dwelling prior to the extension of the Oregon & California Railroad in 1883. Present population exceeds 2500.

GRANT'S PASS erected 212 buildings, including a $50,000 brick opera house, during the last seven months of 1889.

GRANT'S PASS property quadrupled in value between May and December, 1889, and bids fair to do the same during the first six months of 1890.

GRANT'S PASS is the county seat of Josephine county, one of the extreme southern counties of Oregon, and is known throughout the state as the home of the fig and vine.

GRANT'S PASS has ten general merchandise stores, doing an aggregate cash business of over $3000 per day, and plenty room for more.

GRANT'S PASS is the sole distributing point for 1800 square miles of the most prolific territory on the Pacific Coast, embracing the whole of Josephine county.

GRANT'S PASS has shipped $2,320,000 worth of gold dust since 1883, being the output of a few partially developed placer mines in Josephine county.

GRANT'S PASS has one sash and door factory, with a paid up capital of $125,000, affording employment to over 200 men all the year round.

GRANT'S PASS has twenty saw mills in operation in the Sugar Pine Forests, within a radius of 28 miles, and ships more lumber and manufactured woodwork than any town in Oregon, except Portland.

GRANT'S PASS is situated on the north bank of the beautiful Rogue River, which, in addition to its charming scenic features, affords a 50,000-horsepower for manufacturing purposes.

GRANT'S PASS is surrounded by the forest wealth of Michigan, the precious metals of Montana, the marble quarries of Vermont, and the semi-tropic fruit fields of Southern California.

GRANT'S PASS, by reason of its wonderfully diversified resources, affords an inviting field for the speculator, the manufacturer, the miner, the dairyman, the fruit grower, the lumberman, the stock-raiser, and last, but not least, the inactive healthseeker.

A NEW ENGLAND JAUNT.

A Trip From Classic Old Yale to Portland, Maine, and Return.

Corwin S. Shank, a Student, Furnishes a Readable Account of a Pleasant Journey Along the Atlantic Seaboard.

Under date of New Haven, Conn., April 9, Mr. Corwin S. Shank, a student at "Classic Old Yale," sends the following very readable letter to THE OREGONIAN:

Now, while many students of Yale are with their parents, enjoying the spring recess, Mr. J. E. Hedges and myself, too far distant from Oregon to spend this Easter vacation at home, embraced the opportunity to make a trip through a portion of New England, making Portland, Maine, our most distant point. Taking a train on the Shore Line Railroad, which skirts the northern edge of Long Island sound, we pass through a rocky and not very arable country, indented here and there by small bays stretching in from the sound, and giving to the landscape a picturesque effect. We see many small towns, notice numerous summer cottages along the shore, and catch occasional glimpses of the blue hills of the Long Island coast.

In about two hours we reach New London on the Thames, where the noted boat races between Yale and Harvard are annually rowed, and in which contests for the last four years Yale has defeated her crimson-clad competitors. The Thames is a beautiful river and reminds us of our own Willamette. From New London to Providence, our road leads inland and through a barren looking country, that resembles somewhat the great plains of the west, but which is very much smaller in comparison. We find Providence a place of great activity, exhibiting the rush of business which is noticeably absent in most New England cities. Situate as it is at the head of the Narragansett bay, it is the shipping point for the great manufacturing industries of the state. Providence justly prides herself in possessing Brown's University, which is situate on a hill and surrounded by a lawn which is certainly unsurpassed as a college campus. The buildings are of stone and brick and are large and beautiful in design. Owing to Yale and Harvard being so close the attendance at this university is not as large, as it deserves to be; however, the students number between three and four hundred.

Between Providence and Boston the country is low-lying and not very fertile. The towns along the road are small, and, like all towns of New England, the people are engaged principally in manufacturing. At Boston, we visited, among other places, Harvard University, but of this institution there need be little said, for it has been since its founding the leading university of this section, and at present has about 2000 students. The grounds are commodious, and the buildings are magnificent. Among the most prominent of these is Memorial hall, the latest addition, containing a large eating-room, which adds greatly to the convenience of the students, and in which about 1000 take their meals. The cost of board is $4 per week. It is said that about 125 students, who are waiting themselves, find employment here as waiters. The cost of this building was $750,000, and in fact, it might be said of all the buildings that they speak for the wealth of the institution. A very noticeable feature of Boston is the crookedness of the streets, but many of the buildings of the city are of a high order of architecture, and the rush of business reminds one of a Western city.

Our next stopping place is Andover, a beautiful town of homes, nestled among the hills of Massachusetts, about twenty miles north of Boston. Here is situated Phillips Andover academy, with buildings, about ten in number, all large and conveniently arranged. The principal is Professor Bancroft, a son of the noted historian, Bancroft. A son of the former is a student at Yale, and with his father's family we enjoyed a pleasant visit.

Near the academy stands an old stone mansion, in which Harriet Beecher Stowe was born and in which she wrote the concluding chapters of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." We visited also Phillips Exeter academy, at Exeter, N. H. This academy was founded by the same two Phillips brothers that founded Phillips Andover academy. The buildings at Exeter are superior to those of Andover, but the instruction is the same. The work that these two most noted academic preparatory schools are doing is most successful, as is proven by the high stand taken by their graduates on entrance into such institutions as Yale and Harvard.

These academies were founded in 1780. While Rugby represents the English type of academies, Exeter and Andover are examples of the American type. A considerable number of the graduates from these academies do not proceed to the universities but enter at once into business or the study of a profession; and it is observed, too, that men who have profited by the training such as is given at Exeter and Andover are by no means hopelessly disqualified for the race against those who have received more aid from exterior appliances. But we would not overlook the preparatory function in these academies as stepping stones to wider and deeper training found in the many colleges and universities in our land. Exeter and Andover are doing now for their students about the same as was required at Yale and Harvard at the beginning of this century. There are about three hundred students in each of these academies. A noticeable feature is the gymnasium, in which strict attention is given to see that exercise is taken daily, and thus watchfully is the health of the student guarded. The Merrimac valley and country about Exeter is fertile and charming in the extreme.

Traveling north we pass through many small but beautiful villages. To the right of us and in plain view at stretches out the Atlantic, and to the left is seen in the distance the range of White mountains with Mt. Washington, its highest peak. We soon reach Portland, our objective point, and find it a city of about 40,000 people, situated on small hills overlooking the sea. An observatory to which we obtained access afforded us an excellent opportunity for sight-seeing, commanding, as it does, a view of the city scattered on the different heights, the harbor dotted with islands and the sea stretching off in the distance and blending with the horizon. Many summer resorts along the shore and on the islands in the harbor were brought in plain view by the use of a telescope, and they would have been visited by us had the temperature not been so low. Were there resources or industries to create a trade, Portland would certainly become a great shipping point, owing to the immediate and unobstructed access to the sea. After viewing the city from different points, we could but feel a pride in the Empire City of the North west whose buildings and business is far superior to those of the city from which its derives its name.

Owing to the cold weather and rain we turn our faces homeward, after stopping at a few places on the way we reach New Haven safely and are glad to see old Yale once more. But now our trip is a thing of the past, the Easter recess is nearly ended and the students are gathering at Yale for the last term of the year. Within the last twelve months the University has witnessed many improvements, the most noticeable of which has been the erection of Osborne hall, a large and elegant building, which is used entirely for lecture and recitation purposes. Another fine addition to Yale's campus is the new library now nearing completion. It is a building excellently adapted to the purpose for which it was designed, and containing a stained glass window of large size and great beauty.

HOW SE L CATCHERS LIVE.

Each Is Paid $400 a Season and Pays No House Rent.

The Century.

It was interesting to note the difference in character crop out as the community gradually took upon itself civilization. Some were naturally prudent, and easily saved a surplus; others would be in debt at the end of the year. In 1877 a small proportion of their number, perhaps 10 per cent., had invested about $1000 or $1200 with the fur company; another 10 per cent. were always in want; the remainder spent what they received. The best paid class, the ablest workers, received over $400 each for their season's work, and as they could obtain a large part of their food from the resources of the island without cost, and received their houses furnished, rent-free, their needs were few. To foreign ways in clothes and fashion they inclined very naturally.

The year before my coming, sealing parties had brought to the island considerable quantities of ready-made clothing as an article of trade, and the men were consequently fairly well dressed; but only a small quantity of clothing suitable for dresses had been taken, and the women had not begun to make their clothing in any regular form. But in time, with some assistance, their ready adaptability made them a very well-dressed people. Before I came away, the wives of those who had been saving up their measure to Sitka with orders for silk dresses for church wear, and the young men arrayed themselves in broadcloth, wore gloves and well-blacked boots, and carried perfumed handkerchiefs.

As my time was not fully taken up with my duties, and good fortune brought to me an abiding place of unusual size for St. Paul, I seized the happy chance of making my house a meeting place for the people, and especially for the children. Later we fitted up a schoolroom, which we also made a place for social entertainment, and kept the school open eight months in the year. We were greatly assisted in our school duties by illustrated books and papers sent to us, for so unvaried and barren was the scenery of the island, which was all of the world these children had ever seen, that it was well nigh impossible for them to comprehend physical objects of the simplest nature.

What a mountain might be was beyond their understanding, and the difficulty of explaining the appearance of a great forest to children who knew no vegetable growth larger than the purple lupine on their grassy slopes was greater than one can tell. It was necessary, however, to exercise the strictest censorship for our illustrated lessons, as it was difficult for all to comprehend caricature even in its simplest forms; even the most impossible pictures they believed represented facts.

I found the people living in separate families, and as far as I could see, there was no more immorality among them than would be found in any decent civilized community. The women were modest in deportment, the children obedient and respectful to their parents, and the men always manifested a disposition to assist me in all my efforts.

In character they were mild and gentle, with the expression of settled melancholy habitual to those races which have no amusements. In this respect, however, they changed greatly as opportunity developed the merriment latent in their nature. The children when first taught to speak did so in a serious way, and the utter absence of anything like hearty laughter in a group of them always affected me strangely. It seemed as if their avenues of expression were closed to pleasure, and later, when they had learned the simple games I taught them, it was a great satisfaction to me to hear my rooms ring with their merry voices.

THE BUZZARD LOPE.

A New Dancing Step That Has Captured the Whole of Georgia.

New York Tribune.

An aged Georgia darky had lost his mule and went out one Sunday to bury him. Arriving within sight of the body he came upon a group of forty-nine buzzards. Forty-eight of them flew away. The forty-ninth, whose feathers were gray with age, or early piety, or something, declined to retire. Looking straight at the old darkey he spread his wings—they were nine feet from tip to tip—tucked his tail under his body, drew in his chin and proceeded to lope around the dead mule.

The old darkey had been a wonderful dancer in slavery days, and prided himself on knowing every step that anybody else knew. But here was a brand new step. It wrenched his soul to see that ancient buzzard loping there at his ease, as he had never dreamed any creature on earth could lope. He stood aghast. The spade fell from his shoulder. He spread his arms, bent his body in the middle, stiffened every joint except those at the elbow, wrist, ankle and knee, and forgetting both the day and the place, followed the buzzard around the mule for four solid hours, keeping step with the bird. At dusk the buzzard flapped his wings and went to roost, while the old man loped home, feeling ten years younger than the youngest "coon" in the county.

Such is the legend of the "Buzzard Lope." The step captured everybody. Clubs were formed all over the state to learn it, and for the time being all unhappiness over the appointment of negro postmasters was forgotten. The "Buzzard Lope" beggars description. You cannot appreciate it till you see it. It ought to go on the stage for the benefit of the community.

SILK CULTURE IN AMERICA.

Reminiscences of the Attempts in New Hampshire Years Ago.

Silk culture was practiced in many towns in New Hampshire fifty years ago, and among them Hopkinton, says the Boston Globe. Colonel Stephen Long, afterward a civil engineer and for whom Long's peak in the Far West is named, was one of the first to introduce the silk worm into this town.

With others he planted a large mulberry orchard, of which about forty trees are yet alive and flourishing, on the farm of C. G. Hawthorne. Others followed their example, and during the years from 1834 to 1840 many persons were engaged in raising cocoons and manufacturing sewing silk. In the production of silk the farmers thought they foresaw wealth and luxury. It is told of one man that in urging his neighbors to go into the business, he said: "We shall all wear shirts of silk."

For various reasons such sanguine expectations failed to materialize, but it is true a large quantity of sewing silk was manufactured and was quite a profitable industry. Among who succeeded best was Mrs. Abram Brown, who lived on Putney Hill. Her daughters, the Misses Ellen and Matilda Brown, now living in Hopkinton village, relate how they used to assist their mother in the work, and still have in their possession beautiful specimens of hosiery and sewing silk; also the remains of a silk dress which was woven at home on a common hand loom, such as were in use in almost every farmer's house at that time.

Brazil's New Flag

Baltimore Sun, April 5.

Senhor Antonio da Fontoura Xavier, the Brazilian consul at Baltimore, yesterday received from his home government the new national flag of the United States of the Republic of Brazil, which will also serve as his consular flag, and which will be raised for the first time over his consular office, 306 Second street, on April 21. That day is the anniversary of the execution of J. Joaquim da Silva Xavier, the first Brazilian martyr, who made an unsuccessful attempt about a century ago to deliver his country from the yoke of the Portuguese. It is the intention in Brazil to make this day the national holiday of the new republic. The flag is of green color with a large yellow lozenge in the center of which is a blue sphere. Crossing the sphere in a white ribbon inscribed "Ordem e Progresso" in green letters. The sphere represents the southern sky. Twenty white stars below the ribbon, indicating the twenty states, are arranged in the form of the specific southern constellations, the cross and the scorpion, while another larger star above the ribbon is intended to symbolize the capital—Rio de Janeiro. The design is thoroughly emblematic, and in its arrangement shows great thought.

THE GERMAN AND HIS CLOCK.

The story is told of a German who took the hands of his clock to the maker to have them fixed, because they did not keep proper time. Of course, the clock maker demanded the works, as in them lay the trouble. Boils and blotches, pimples and other eruptions on the exterior tell of a disordered condition of the blood within. Be you man or woman, or aught else human, if you have these indications, be wise in time and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the liver and kidneys in good working order, purifies the blood, cleanses the system from all impurities from whatever cause arising, and tones up the functions generally.

"Golden Medical Discovery" checks the frightful inroads of Scrofula, and, if taken in time, arrests the march of Consumption of the Lungs, which is Lung scrofula, purifies and enriches the blood, thereby curing all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings, and kindred ailments. It is powerfully tonic as well as alterative, or blood-cleansing, in its effects, hence it strengthens the system and restores vitality, thereby dispelling all those languid, "tired feelings" experienced by the debilitated. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Salt-rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood and lung remedy, sold by druggists, and guaranteed by its manufacturers, to do all that it is claimed to accomplish, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

$500 OFFERED for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, blood; and putrid; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness, difficulty of clearing throat, expectoration of offensive matter; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Thousands of cases result in consumption, and end in the grave.

By its mild, soothing, antiseptic, cleansing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. This infallible remedy does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs, "creams" and strong caustic solutions with which the public have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. One bottle of "Hold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss or impairment of the senses of taste, smell or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, when caused by the violence of Catarrh, as they all frequently are. By druggists, 50 cents.
